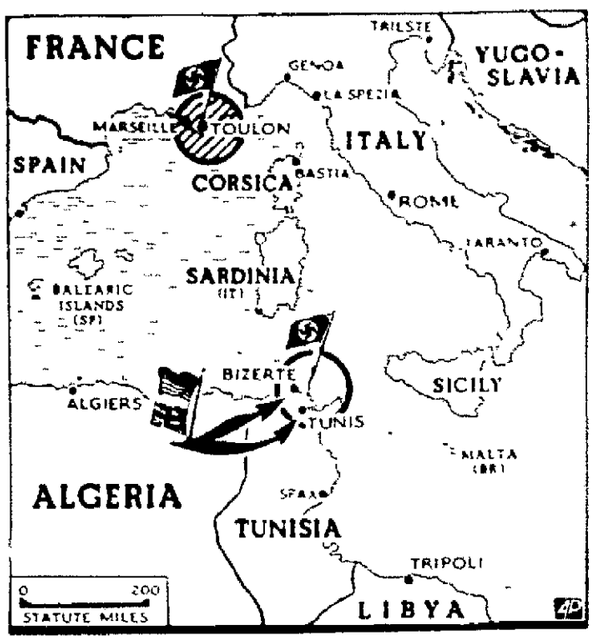
EVENTS MOVE RAPIDLY IN WAR AREA



Another in the series of events started by the Allied invasion of French North Africa, was the seizure of Toulon, last free French city and naval base. The French offered brief resistance while scuttling the home fleet of 62 warships. In Tunisia the Allies were reported closing in on Nazi defenses at Bizerte and Tunis (Associated Press map).

Registration For Gasoline Ration Cards To Continue

Supplemental gasoline registration will be extended "a few days" next week in The Star auditorium on North State street and will include registrations for basic "A" cards, the Marion county rationing board announced today.

Action to extend the time and to take basic "A" registrations was in keeping with a request made last night in a telegram from the state rationing board in Columbus.

So far, 4,726 supplemental cards and 11,793 basic cards have been issued.

Edgar Barnhart, chairman of the rationing board, said no date has been set when the registration period will end, but that it was hoped to conclude it in a few days next week.

Appeal for Volunteers

A special appeal was made to volunteers to continue their services and new volunteers were asked to report to assist with the registrations for "A" cards.

The processing of basic ration cards is a simple procedure and is not as involved as the detailed supplemental registration, officials said. Teachers who conducted the basic registration last week were invited to volunteer their services evenings next week.

The Star auditorium will be open Monday and Tuesday, at least from 12 noon to 9 p. m.

Friday Busy Day

Yesterday the volunteers and review board processed 2,949 applications for supplemental rations, the largest day's work since the registration began. So far 900 preferred "C" cards have been issued.

C. C. Holliday, executive secretary of the rationing board, said there are hundreds of applications which have been mailed in or brought in for processing. These will be gone over Sunday by a group of volunteers who will speed the day working to get applications brought up to date.

Countywide Gasoline Dealers Meeting Set

A countywide meeting of gasoline dealers has been arranged for Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Marion club rooms, in the basement of Hotel Harding, by Marion county rationing officials.

C. C. Holliday, executive secretary of the county rationing board, said dealers' duties in the gasoline rationing program starting Tuesday will be explained in detail by P. L. Jarvis, a representative from the Columbus office of the Office of Price Administration.

Marion Hunter Suffers Feet and Leg Wounds

Conway Leeper of Mound street was accidentally shot in his feet and legs by Homer Watson of Henry street while hunting near Denmark in Morrow county about 11 a. m. today. The shot lodged in one of his feet and in his other leg about half way below the knee.

The accident occurred on a farm owned by Dr. S. W. Matton of Marion where the young men were hunting. Both are about 20 years old. The injured man was brought to the city hospital by Edward Watson, father of Homer Watson, and John Henry of Marion, other members of the party.

JAPS TAKE HEAVY BEATING IN AIR

By The Associated Press

GUADALCANAL, Nov. 12 — Tojos dragonflies took a terrific beating today attempting to raid the harbor waters between Guadalcanal and Little Florida island where reinforcements of American soldiers and Marines were being landed along with huge supplies of food, ammunition and other necessities.

Unlike the Armistice day hit-run raid in which our losses were about half the invaders' today saw a force of torpedoplanes protected by Zeros come across the mountains, over Henderson field and toward the channel to attack the landing operations.

Anti-aircraft fire opened up on land and sea, the fight planes circled for altitude, land-based heavy cannon ripped holes in the cloud-filled sky, and when it was all over here was the boxscore every American can be proud of:

Japanese losse—16 two-engined torpedoplanes and five Zeros shot down by fighters and 11 additional planes by anti-aircraft and ship-based fire.

American losses—Four planes, and one pilot is known to be safe.

That is par for any course.

Navy a one of the unloading ships was struck not one of the unloading barges was hit and not body among the huge landing party was injured.

MARION YOUTH HURT IN FALL FROM MOW

Gene Sens, 15, Suffers Brain Concussion.

Gene Sens, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sens of 262 Ballentine avenue, suffered a severe brain concussion about 3:30 yesterday when he fell approximately 30 feet from a hay mow onto a manger trough at the Miller farm on Route 23, a quarter of a mile north of the junction of Routes 23 and 4.

At City hospital this morning his condition was reported to be "fair."

The attending physician said X-ray pictures of the skull and spine were unsatisfactory, because of the boy's restlessness and that other pictures would be made today.

Gene, a freshman at St. Mary Parochial school, and three friends, Harry Hibbett of North Main street, George Miller of North Greenwood street, and Carl Soulier of East Farming street, had gone to the farm earlier in the afternoon to shoot pigeons with Hibbett's BB gun.

Sens climbed into the haymow, shot at a pigeon and then fell through a trap door which was covered with hay, it was reported. Soulier had started up a ladder into the mow and the other boys were on the barn floor.

There was no telephone at the farm home and Hibbett rode his bicycle to the Marathon Grill to call for an ambulance. Sens was moved to the hospital in the Edwin K. Smith ambulance.

Advantages of Payroll Bond Buying Explained

Chairman Issues Statement as Arrangements Near Completion for Start of Drive Dec. 1.

With Marion city and county gearing for the Dec. 1-7 nationwide campaign to put every employe in the United States on the payroll savings plan of war bond investment, Harold J. Grigsby, chairman of the local campaign, today outlined several facts about the payroll plan and the reasons why war bonds are [illegible] for sale.

Locally the 'Pearl Harbor Day' campaign will be climaxed in a ceremony at the courthouse on Dec. 7 when an honor roll of firms having 90 per cent of employes on the payroll savings plan will be unveiled.

Firms having 10 per cent or more of the gross payroll going into war bonds every week will have the percentage marked opposite the firm name.

Part of the campaign is aimed at those firms not having a gross payroll reduction of 10 per cent. Top that 10% by Pearl Harbor Day' has been set as their statewide slogan.

Plan Explained

Following is the explanation of the payroll savings plan:

It is an arrangement with an employer enabling an employe to set aside a portion of his earnings regularly for war bonds.

The employe signs an authorization card. When deductions add up to $18.75 the employer will buy and deliver a $25 war bond to the employe.

The employer, without charge to the employe, sets up a bookkeeping system to handle the deductions and delivery of the bonds.

The entire arrangement is voluntary. Employes may at any time increase, lower, or cancel the authorization for deductions.

At present throughout the United States, 22,000,000 Americans working for 148,000 employers are now on payroll savings plans. Deductions total eight per cent of their gross payroll. The treasury department's objective in the present drive is 30,000,000 Americans setting aside 10 per cent of their gross payroll.

What Your Bonds Do

Every time an American workman puts $18.75 into war savings for which he or she receives a bond which will pay him or her $25 at maturity 10 years hence, he or she accomplishes these things:

Builds up a tidy nest egg for the future when the civilian goods he or she is denying himself or herself now will again be plentiful.

Helps to prevent inflation and ruinous price rises in the cost of living.

Helps to equip his or her relatives and friend who are doing the fighting.

Buys any of the following: 900 45 caliber cartridges, more than four steel helmets, a field telephone, a chemical warfare protection outfit, two woolen coats, five pairs of shoes, 14 woolen shirts, almost three wool blankets, 15 pistol belts, nine twill jackets, 18 comforts, or seven cartridge belts.

Final Plans For War Bond Payroll Campaign Made

Harold J. Grigsby, chairman of the general payroll plan committee for Marion committee and committee members met for an hour and a half yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce office in an endeavor to get the payroll savings plan under way in several hundred industries and businesses in the city and county now employing three or more persons.

Their work started with a survey of cards compiled by the Ohio War Bond staff in Cleveland, showing names of concerns in Marion, Waldo, Prospect, LaRue, Green Camp, Caledonia, Martel and Morral not now on the payroll savings plan of investing in war bonds.

The cards were distributed among the committee members, who will contact heads of the concerns within a few days and report to the chairman at a meeting some time before Dec. 7.

Literature was distributed and it was announced that in firms having 90 per cent of the employes on the payroll savings plan the employer will be given stickers to display at home or on their automobile windshields.

Mr. Grigsby emphasized from time to time the importance of those concerns now investing 10 per cent of the gross payroll increasing the percentage in keeping with the Ohio slogan, "Top that 10% by Pearl Harbor Day."

Many Not on List

The cards sent here by the Cleveland office of the Ohio War Bond staff revealed that many large and small industries and businesses in the county are not yet on the payroll savings plan.

"They also revealed that at the Marion Steam Shovel Co., the county's largest industry, 100 per cent of the employes are buying bonds through the plan and that the gross payroll deductions amount to 10.33 per cent, the best record of any industry in the county.

"Our biggest industry and look what they are doing," Mr. Grigsby said. "A lot of their men didn't work during the depression and in many firms where work was fairly steady throughout the depression the workers are not up to the 10 per cent mark."

Mr. Grigsby termed the company's record "wonderful" and praised the work of the company's labor-management committee which was responsible for the record.

Marion Christmas Savings Checks Total $117,400

Approximately 3,175 residents of Marion and vicinity will share in Christmas savings club checks this year totaling $117,400, bank officials announced today. The checks will be placed in the mail the first of next week.

The amount is approximately $4,000 more than last year with about 50 fewer persons participating. This year's $117,000 exceeds the amount distributed even in the boom years of 1928 and 1929, bank officials said. The checks will average nearly $37 this year compared to $35 last year and $30 in 1936.

Past records show that not all of this money will be spent for Christmas buying, but part of it will be turned over to paying bills, taxes and for other purposes.

LAST PRETENSE OF FREEDOM IN FRANCE FADES

Vichy Army Prepares To Disband; Scuttled Fleet Puts End to Vichy Rule.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 28. The small French armistice army made ready for disbandment today and the last pretense of an independent Vichy government faded as smoke still rose at Toulon from installations which German reports said yesterday was the scuttling of most of the French warships there.

Muffled explosions [illegible] the strike that continued to [illegible] throughout the night, a Vichy broadcast reported said.

After first declaring that some of the vessels were seized by German troops who swept in the unarmed naval base before dawn yesterday, Berlin radio reports acknowledged that the fleet "mostly scuttled herself."

"France's old glory now lies in the grave," a Nazi broadcaster said.

But allied observers here saw in the still confused and uncertain picture the first stage in the "liberation of France." The reported destruction of some 60 warships was regarded as a great blow rethatch for Germany and a definite lift for the hard pressed allied navies.

Darlan's Appeal Late

Delayed dispatches from allied headquarters in North Africa said Admiral Jean Darlan, now cooperating with the Allies in North Africa urged the Toulon fleet to escape for the second time last night before learning the warships had been scuttled. His first appeal was made soon after he joined the allied cause in Africa.

(The BBC quoted a British correspondent as saying that "some French destroyers" had escaped from Toulon and might be enroute to North Africa. Earlier it was reported two submarines made their way out of the harbor.)

Members of the Fighting French navy and the admiralty staff here in London rushed to the French admiralty courtyard and observed a minute's silence.

The Blessed Hope

A SERMONETTE
By REV. ERNEST FINKENBINER
Pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church

* * *

Titus 2:11-13—"The grace of God bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world; looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ."

* * *

GOD took upon Himself the form of sinful flesh being manifested in Christ to teach men that they should not only deny ungodliness and worldly lusts but that they should live soberly, righteously and Godly in this present world. However the God who knoweth our frame, remembering that we are dust (Psa. 103:14) presents a method by which men may meet the three conditions demanded in our study for He instructs all men to be looking for that blessed hope. Looking for the blessed hope is to the church what the governor is to the steam engine. Every soul who has ability to read the English language may learn for himself that the Lord Jesus Christ will physically come to the earth again, but before His return to earth He will come in the air for His body, the blood-washed church. That coming in the air is the Blessed Hope spoken of in our study passage and is the ultimate prize of the believer, who is a member of the church (Col. 1:18) (Eph. 5.21-33). Peter was moved to write. (II Peter 1:3-4)

His Divine power has given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness—whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the Divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

The New-Birth is wrought by the Word of God (Romans 10-17) (James 1:18) (1 Peter 1:23) (John 6:63) and man does by the power of creation (Eph. 2:10) become a Son of God even by the Spirit of God.

(II Cor. 3:13)

But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord.

It is written

(1 John 3:2)

Beloved now are we the Sons of God.

However it is true

(1 John 3:1)

That the world knoweth us not, because it knew Him not. Nevertheless we are confident of His ability for again we read (1 John 3.2)

We know that when He shall appear we shall be like Him for we shall see Him as He is.

How sad it is to behold souls who insist on making the Power of God (Rom. 1:16) to be dependent on the works of man. Consider the promises of God as directed to Christians in the following passages.

(1 Thess. 4:10-18)

The Lord Himself shall descend with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ (only saved ones) shall rise first. Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together into the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

(I Cor. 15:51-52)

Behold I shew you a mystery; we shall not all sleep, but we shall all (Christians) be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump; for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

(Phil. 3.20-21)

Our conversation is in Heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body.

Let every reader understand clearly that the foregoing promises are for Christians only, for it is specifically written

(1 John 3:3)

Every man that hath this hope in Him (Jesus) purifieth himself even as He (Jesus) is pure.

To advocates of the Fatherhood of God and Brotherhood of man theory we can but pass on what Paul taught

(II Thess. 3:2)

All men have not faith.

The thrilling promises of the Blessed Hope are extended to all who will by an act of faith become a Son of God in this present world. It is written

(1 John 3:1-2)

Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the Sons of God—Beloved now are we the Sons of God.

An intelligent mind will immediately ask "How may I become a Son of God?" Holy Spirit anticipated such a question and did answer it in

(John 1:12-13)

As many as received Him (Jesus) to them gave He power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on His Name. Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

Dear reader friend you have feasted your eyes on priceless promises breathed by the God of creation and directed to all creatures of dust who because of earthly existence are declared to be dead in trespasses and sins (Rom. 3:10) (Eph. 2:1-3). Every promise is intended to attract you from the realm of darkness into the blessedness of the light of hope. The Ethopian eunuch (Acts 8) testified "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." Peter believed "That He was the Christ, the Son of the Living God." Do you believe He is the Son of God and able to save you from the everlasting fires of hell, which is the second death (Rev. 20:14)? Have you accepted Him as your personal Saviour to become a Son of God—if not

(II Cor. 6:2)

Now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.

CONDUCTS SERVICES

Rev. Sallie Hankes of Ashland, Ky., above, will continue to hold revival services in the Christian Holiness tabernacle next week at 7:45 nightly. The evangelistic campaign opened Thursday night. Rev. MEETING SET FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Countywide Session To Be Held Monday at Y. M. C. A.

A meeting of all Sunday school superintendents of Marion and Marion county in the interest of launching a program of Christian education will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A., Rev. M. E. Hertzler, chairman of the newly formed Marion County Christian association, announced today.

Superintendents of all Sunday schools, whether their churches have joined the association, or a representative of each superintendent, is urged to be present. The program will be planned in three phases of religious education, leadership training to provide more efficient personnel on Sunday school staffs, a countywide Vacation church school setup to enable every child in the county to have two weeks of Bible instruction in the summer, and week-day religious instruction in the public schools of the county.

Plans for the leadership training phase will be made Monday night so that the program may be developed in the near future.

To Open Campaign at Calvary Church

DR. E. W. PETTICORD

REV. L. C. FISHER

Evangelist E. W. Petticord, D. D. of Winona Lake, Ind. will begin a two weeks' evangelistic campaign at Calvary Evangelical church tomorrow morning at 10:30 a. m. and will preach each evening during the week, except Saturday, at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Petticord has spent several years in evangelistic work. For a number of years he was district superintendent in the Washington-Oregon conference of the Evangelical church. In June he resigned to give all his time to evangelistic work.

A few years ago he visited the Holy Land.

In this campaign Dr. Petticord will be assisted by Rev. Lee C. Fisher, song leader. Rev. Fisher is a composer, vocal soloist, religious cartoonist, and plays the piano, solovox, trombone, and accordion. A chorus will be formed under the leadership of Rev. Fisher. Old Gospel hymns will be used throughout the meeting. These meetings will be open to the public.

PRINCESS AT WORK

By The United Press

SAN FRANCISCO—Mrs. Jerome Landfield, born Princess Loubanoff Rostovsky, of a Russian royal line, has just exchanged her trowel, with which she usually cultivates flowers, for a blowtorch and has taken up war work at the Mare Island Navy yard. She was married to Jerome Landfield of San Francisco at Paris in 1907, and has lived here ever since. Motivated by the desire to do her part in the national effort, she commutes daily to her new job.

FRANK BROS.

FRANCE

in tribute to the French sailors who died at Toulon. Flags at Fighting French headquarters and the admiralty were at half mast.

General Charles DeGaulle and Admiral Philippe-Marie Auboyneau, commander-in-chief of the Fighting French navy, ordered all flags or fighting French ships half masted today and observance of a one-minute silence at 10 a. m.

It was generally agreed that the elimination of the Toulon fleet as a possible hostile force ended a major allied anxiety that the warships might be united with the Italian fleet in the Mediterranean.

The Vichy radio, after giving early accounts of the stirring drama at Toulon, lapsed into periods of unaccountable silence. The Vichy broadcaster said all the ships had been sunk and coastal batteries destroyed as the German troops moved in to occupy the port on Adolf Hitler's order.

Sailors Held Prisoner

The Swiss radio told of long lines of French sailors being led through the streets of Toulon as axis prisoners.

Admiral Jean Darlan, former Vichy defense chief and now civil administrator for allied-occupied French North Africa, said in a broadcast from Algiers "it was evident from the very beginning that Hitler's promise not to occupy Toulon was intended to keep the French fleet" at its base.

Although other naval authorities said it probably was impossible for the French warships to escape Toulon because of the German patrol outside the harbor and Nazi aircraft based nearby, Darlan criticized the French Toulon command for not following his suggestion to take the fleet to North Africa.

"We now have the duty to defend France against her external enemies," the admiral said.

The German occupation of Toulon and the radio reports of the scuttling were expected to stimulate French resistance to the Germans both in France, now completely under the rule of German Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt, and in Africa.

The Germans issued a denial from "official French quarters" of a report that Marshal Petain had fallen ill.

C.O.P. NAMES LEADERS IN HOUSE, SENATE

Majority Leaders Chosen for Next Session of Legislature.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28 — Leadership of the Republican majorities in the house and senate will be in the hands of veterans when the 95th general assembly convenes Jan. 4.

Republican members-elect in caucus yesterday retained for third terms House Speaker William M. McCulloch of Miami county, and Frank F. Wollenweber of Summit county, president pro tem of the senate.

The legislators also voted unanimously to retain other party officials in both houses and heard Gov. Bricker declare their first job would be to put "the state's house in perfect order for aiding the war effort."

Bricker said the Ohio administration was "proud of its war effort," but must be given all powers necessary to carry out the war program.

The governor added he hoped for a short session although "all necessary matters must be taken care of."

House members selected William H. Deckers of Hamilton county as speaker pro tem. He also will serve as majority leader. Otis R. Johnson of Fulton county was reappointed clerk of the house and C. William O'Neille of Washington was chosen majority whip over Ralph Sifford of Auglaize and John L. Catlett of Richland.

Thomas E. Bateman of Columbus was renamed senate clerk and Cliff Martin of Hamilton county was in line for reelection as sergeant-at-arms.

Both caucuses left selection of clerical workers to patronage committees.

Appointed to the senate patronage committee were Whittemore Dill, A. Liggitt, Logan county; P. H. Rogers, Lorain; Fred G. Reuter, Hamilton; Albert L. Daniels, Highland.

Named to senate committee on committees were Whittemore, Lawrence A. Kane, Hamilton county; Walter G. Nickels, Tuscarawas; Tom W. Jones, Meigs, and Fred P. Seibert, Auglaize. McCulloch will select house committees.

House Democrats were to caucus at New Philadelphia and Democratic senators in Cleveland today originally to select minority floor leaders.

Chairman Ed D. Schorr, reported to the Republican state central and executive committees that the party ended the recent campaign with a deficit of $16,000 which would be liquidated by Jan. 1.

Byhalia Woman, Columbus Editor Exchange Vows

THE marriage of Miss Mary Lou Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller of near Byhalia, and Vaughn Hill of Columbus, city editor of the Ohio State Journal, took place Thursday afternoon in the Methodist church at Byhalia. The ceremony was read at 3 o'clock by Rev. Lindsley Wisner, pastor, in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The bride's attendant was Miss Ruth Courtright and serving as best man for Mr. Hill was John Forney. Both are of Columbus. Ushers were William Shipley and Lowell Harris of Marion and Robert Plotner of Byhalia.

Preceding the ceremony there was a program of wedding music by Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Durnell of Rienwood, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Durnell played a program of nuptial music and Mr. Durnell sang "Oh, Promise Me," "Because," and "I Love You Truly."

For her wedding Miss Miller chose a gown of mist green crepe with which she wore a shoulder length veil caught to her head with a single fuchsia shaded orchid matching the one worn on her shoulder. Miss Courtright was costumed in a gown of gold crepe with which she wore brown accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. The bride's mother chose a crepe costume in a plum shade and wore a corsage of gardenias and roses.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a gold identification bracelet and Mr. Hill presented his best man with a silver tie clip.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Miller were hosts at a small reception at their home. Mr. and Mrs. Hill will make their home in Columbus.

The bride was graduated from Ohio State university, where she was an honor student.

O. W. U. Students in Trouble After Mail Box Fling

DELAWARE, Nov. 28—Fifteen Ohio Wesleyan university freshmen of Delta Tau Delta fraternity were hailed before United States postal authorities yesterday in connection with an escapade which resulted in destruction of a number of mail boxes on the Troy road northwest of here Wednesday night.

A postal inspector released the students after arrangements for settlement of the damage were made but said the federal court officials would have to take final action.

Boxes Torn Down

Sheriff M. F. Pinney, who arrested the youths about 11 p. m. Wednesday, said 15 mail boxes at farmhouses had been torn from posts and that many had been destroyed. One box had been thrown onto the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad tracks.

The destruction started just outside the Delaware city limits and extended northward a mile and a half. Only three boxes were not damaged along the route.

After their arrest they were released in custody of college officials after their names and addresses were obtained. When arrested, the youths were attempting to uproot a mailbox at the Robert Milligan farm, which was being defended by the tenant, Fred Price, who had been warned of their approach by farmers living farther south.

Sent Back To Delaware

After being released the group started up the road again, according to sheriff's officials, and calls from several farmers were received about 1 a. m. Thursday. There was no damage reported on the second expedition and the youths were soon rounded up and sent back to the fraternity house.

Incensed farmers flooded the sheriff's office Thanksgiving day and several indicated they might file charges of malicious destruction of property against the youths.

CHAPTER SIX

Spied On

"MY TIMING'S too fast, isn't it?" Clark said quietly. "Makes the lines sound corny. I'm sorry. But when you meet one person who calms you and steadies you—makes you feel like you've found a ballast—"

"That's a sack of sand, isn't it?" Rita murmured flippantly. Her heart was pounding violently but she covered her confusion by glancing at her watch. "Half our supper hour is gone. You'll be late for your show if that waiter doesn't hurry—"

He beamed joyously at her as he summoned the waiter. "I knew you'd be the kind to watch over me," he said.

The evening swept on without a flaw. Rita sat entranced through Clark's play, her heart swelling with pride and happiness each time he appeared on the stage. She hardly followed the plot, she was so intent on him—listening to the warm tones of his voice, watching his tricks of stage technique, sensing his hold on the audience.

Afterwards, Duffy took her back to his dressing room to meet the cast and director, and then she and Clark escaped through a horde of admirers pressing night club invitations. Out through the stage door through another horde of autograph seekers and finally to Clark's car and a swift drive across the dim-lit city to the Wallaby Club.

As they danced, Clark continued to be warmly attentive, but Rita, just as determinedly refused to take him seriously.

"I don't dare," she assured him lightly. "You're giving the country girl a big thrill, and don't think I don't love it. But the famous, handsome stage actor, Clark Pasquin interested in plain Rita Ralston from Blossom Beach, California? Oh, no."

"What a woman," Clark mourned humorously. "Not one decent spark of vanity I can work on."

Rita had almost forgotten the thrill of dancing to the strains of a good orchestra in a dusky, scented room—of lingering over delicious food and delicate wines as they they had time without end.

In spite of an unending procession of congratulating acquaintances their table gradually became an oasis of privacy. Their talk and laughter built a bridge of shared, secret enthusiasms. They had read the same books, loved the same music. They argued happily over plays. Once Rita noticed a large party of soldiers, hosted by a patriotic, white-haired stock broker.

Snapshot

"I" ving a grand time, aren't they?" Clark's eyes had followed hers. He was abruptly sober, thoughtful. "You haven't asked why I'm not in uniform." Rita's face colored guiltily. "I didn't think of it," she lied.

"You had a right to." His tone was suddenly bitter. "Fact it, they won't take me." All his easy sophistication was gone with the statement. He was a disappointed boy blurting out his troubles. "You know that mystic look I have—according to my publicity write-ups? Well, that's acute myopia—short-sightedness. I've cultivated a certain adroitness in finding my way around a stage once I get the furniture charted, but they don't think I'd do so well on a battlefield."

Sudden understanding sent a rush of blood through Rita's heart. This was the real Clark Pasquin—straightforward, eager, honest like her father, resenting fiercely any physical shortcoming that came between him and his duty.

"This war's the big show now," he was tracing an impatient line on the tablecloth. "It's hell being on the sidelines."

Rita's hand reached out impulsive in an involuntary gesture of sympathy. His hand closed over it, his glance met hers. Slowly he relaxed, smiled.

And, at that minute, Gloria's voice cut through the soft drift of music about them, harshly imperative.

"It's Mr. Pasquin!"

Clark and Rita looked up dazedly into the laughing faces of the three debutantes and their escorts just as a photographer's flash-light caught the group.

Patty was shrilling. "Did we frighten you?"

"Out of an absorbing tete-a-tete," Gloria was humorously sarcastic as she turned to Clark's companion. Her smile dropped abruptly. She gasped. "You!" she cried.

Clark was startled. "You know Miss Ralston?"

Gloria's sullen eyes lighted with purpose, even as she turned back to face Clark. "But of course!" she cried gaily. "Our fathers went to school together! I've been dying to show Rita the town. That settles it. Now you must join us."

But Clark affably excused himself and Rita on ground of weariness. They said their goodbyes, but as they turned toward the door, Rita caught Gloria's black eyes on her in a glance so vibrant with hatred she felt as if she'd been struck.

Completely exhausted and puzzled, Rita relaxed against the leather seat of Clark's car, while he drove once around the park. A white moon gleamed frostily through misty clouds. The tires made a singing noise on the macadam of the drive.

"Is that important business of yours going to keep you all day tomorrow?" he asked quietly.

"I want to work out what I'm going to say in the morning and see Mr. Cunningham in the afternoon," she answered dreamily.

"All right. But I'm picking you up for lunch." He smiled down at her slowly. "You still don't believe I'm serious, do you?"

She laughed and shook her head.

Siege To Come

He pulled the car to the curb before her hotel. His voice was low. "You're facing a siege, little country girl," he said. "I haven't wanted a lot of things in my life—but I always knew what they were, and they always haunted me till I got them. Just a warning."

"Thanks," Rita whispered, smiling above a thudding heart.

He pulled her slowly into his arms, kissing her once, slowly, gently and released her.

The world swung away from them. They were alone, in a place of quiet wonder, utterly unaware of the doorman at the curb, the cars whirling by the street beside them—or of a limousine that passed very slowly, on the back seat of which Gloria watched them with hard, flashing eyes.

"She lives at Hotel Cheltenham," she said thoughtfully. Her voice was a vindictive whisper.

JUNK TO JEEP PARADE

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28—A "junk-to-jeep" parade will be held here Monday. Motor owning old broken down automobiles have been requested by civic officials to contribute to the scrap metal drive, which has netted about 500 pounds per person in this community.

Mobile motion picture units operating under the direction of the office of information have presented more than 1,000 programs in rural regions of nine U. S. states, including the smaller states within a year.

Meanwhile, applications for construction of new dwelling units in defense areas where preference ratings may still be issued, are being accepted by the federal Housing administration insuring office in Columbus.

Applications for FHA loans may be processed after applications for P-55 preference rating orders have been filed. Processing on these two applications involving financing or preference ratings may be made simultaneously under a recent regulation from the Washington office of the Federal Housing administration.

P-55 preference rating orders are now being processed only in conformity with the new war housing minimum construction standards.

The minimum construction requirements of the Federal Housing administration for mortgage insurance under Title VI are currently being revised so that properties eligible under WPB war housing construction requirements will also be eligible for mortgage insurance under FHA.

War Plants To Mark Christmas Holiday

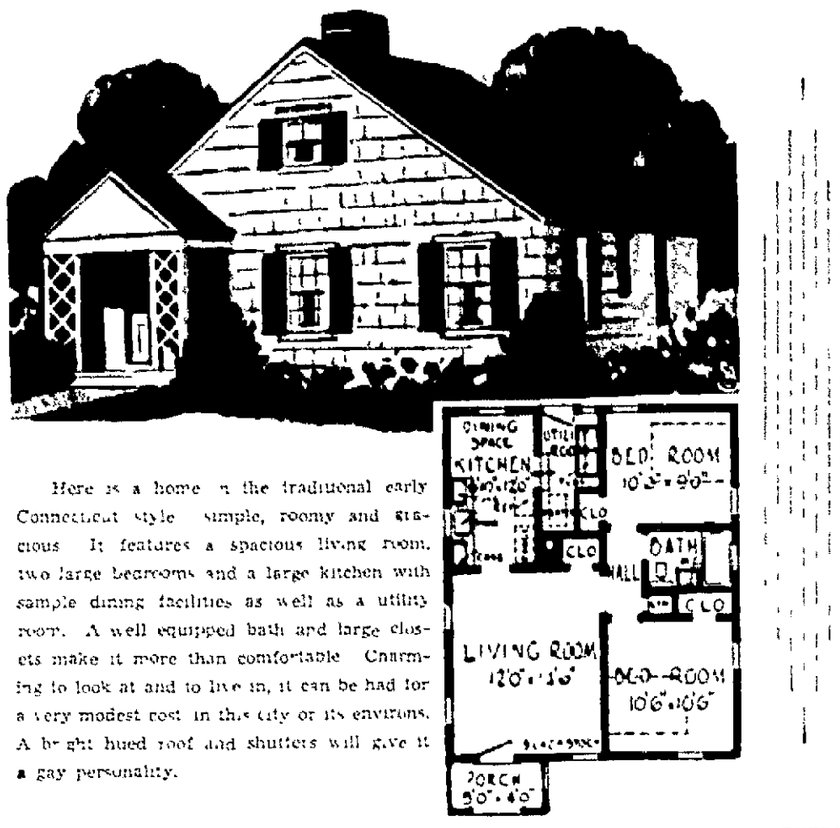
By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—Christmas will be observed as a full holiday in the nation's war production plants, except for necessary maintenance and standby operations, War Production Director Donald M. Nelson announced yesterday.

Pointing out that there have been no full holidays in war production this year, Nelson said:

"On the birthday of the Prince of Peace we should rest from the production of the weapons of war."

An Early Connecticut Style House



Here is a home in the traditional early Connecticut style—simple, roomy and gracious. It features a spacious living room, two large bedrooms and a large kitchen with sample dining facilities as well as a utility room. A well equipped bath and large closets make it more than comfortable. Charming to look at and to live in, it can be had for a very modest cost in this city or its environs. A bright hued roof and shutters will give it a gay personality.

Public Favors Longer War Industry Week, Poll Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 28—As the manpower shortage moves swiftly to the emergency stage, it becomes increasingly apparent that the new congress when it convenes in January, will give the question early attention.

And the problem it will face is a far from simple one. On the one hand are industries' increasing demands for more workers and the Truman senate committee recommending upward revision of the basic work week as a means of alleviating the shortage.

On the other hand are the workers connected with war industries, who, according to a recent Institute study, are willing to work at least 48 hours a week, but, a majority say they should be paid time and one-half for all hours over 40 in any one week.

In order to measure the extent to which the public is willing to go in its resolve to bend every effort to win the war, the Institute put the following question to a cross-section of the population from coast to coast.

"Would you favor or oppose a law requiring workers connected with war industries to work at least 48 hours a week?"

The result:

FAVOR	78%
OPPOSE	12
NO OPINION	10

While the public leaves the solution of the problem up to congress, the results of the study indicate there will be considerable public pressure upon the new congress for some program to alleviate the increasingly critical manpower shortage.

Public sentiment on the passage of legislation by congress to require 48 hours of work in war industries, while merely a yardstick, should come as no great surprise, for the public has all along shown itself in Institute surveys to be in favor of a longer work week, with time and one-half pay for overtime to begin after 48 hours.

And a study reported by the Institute yesterday revealed the public reiterating its position on the question of overtime pay.

As in former studies, the median average figure the public named at which overtime pay should begin was 48 hours. The same median figure was named by employed persons, industrial workers not connected with war industries, and a majority of people of all income levels.

REMOVE OLD PAINT

Loose or scaly paint should be removed before new paint is applied. Burning has been found to be the best method of removing such impaired surfaces from building exteriors. The torch, however, should be handled by a painter skilled in its use because of the fire hazard. An effective paint remover is recommended for places which cannot be reached with the torch.

"A" BOOKS AVAILABLE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Motorists who have not obtained their "A" gasoline rationing books may obtain them from agencies issuing "B" supplemental coupons, the office of price administration announced. They were urged to obtain them immediately so that transportation facilities will not be swamped when rationing becomes effective Tuesday.

AP HEAD WRITES ON PRESS PRACTICES

Kent Cooper's "Barriers Down," To Be Out Soon.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—The hitherto unrecorded fight to give true and unbiased news to the world is contained in the first book by Kent Cooper, general manager of The Associated Press, which will be released for public sale Dec. 8. The book is entitled "Barriers Down."

Farrar & Rinehart, Inc., New York publishers, announced today the date of sale with a prospectus describing the book as "the story of one of the major achievements of our day—the breaking down of the international news monopoly held until a few years ago by three European news agencies and which was used by them for the spreading of information favorable to the national interests of their respective countries."

Cooper, commenting on the book, said:

"In this story I have revealed the hitherto unrecorded past; Also I have tried to make it clear that the accomplishments unveil avenues of opportunity to the American press through which, by militant action, it can fulfill a mission that will do more than any other one thing can possibly do to prevent future wars.

"No one person can do it. It will take the earnest interest of the entire press. I may be wrong, but I know of no comparable opportunity. If I am right, it will be interesting to see what the American press does in the matter of furthering a destiny which it can dictate."

DECEMBER TRUCK RATION REGULATIONS REVISED

20 Per Cent Cut Previously Ordered Is Cancelled.

Marion city and county truck owners will get as much gasoline as they believe they will need in the month of December, according to a telegram received yesterday noon by C. C. Holliday, executive secretary of the Marion county rationing board, from the office of defense transportation.

Truck owners who already have received their "T" cards during the supplemental registration with a 20 per cent cut on the December allotment in accordance with previous orders, may go ahead and use all the gasoline they need and apply later to the ODT in Columbus or Detroit for an adjustment on ration cards.

Acting in accordance with ODT orders which were effective up to noon yesterday, the gasoline rationing group reduced the estimated gallonage by 20 per cent, since the "T" cards were filled out to cover a period from Nov. 22, 1942 to Jan. 1, 1943, and from Jan. 1 to April 1, 1943. The postponing of the start of rationing to Dec. 1 accounted for the 20 per cent cut.

"It will be up to truck owners to adjust themselves during December," Mr. Holliday said.

Deeds for 36 Properties Recorded In Marion County in Seven Day Period

Thirty-six real estate transfers were listed in the office of County Recorder Grace H. Coleman last week, one more than the number recorded the week before.

Ten mortgages on city and county properties totaled $18,100, while 23 releases for the week amounted to $41,045. Seven chattels were filed and three on county cars for $1,200, $1,000 and $1,800.

Seven loan companies made loans amounting to $10,700, two banks made loans of $8,200 and $1,200, and one individual made a loan of $1,100.

Is Rationing Necessary?

DESPITE Pearl Harbor, despite thousands of automobiles laid up for lack of tires and the certainty that thousands more will be taken off the roads each month from now on, despite the Baruch committee's report, there still are some Americans who doubt that gasoline rationing to save tires is necessary.

It is doubtful if anything can be done to settle their doubts, short of a breakdown in transportation—and they probably would insist that it, too, was imaginary. But in at least two places in the world there is no doubt whatever about gasoline rationing.

Berlin and Tokyo, where the grand strategy of the Axis was developed, haven't been getting much favorable news recently, but it will encourage them to hear that mileage rationing in the United States is running into opposition. This is what they counted on—they built their campaign on belief that the United States, confronted with the hard fact of the loss of its rubber supply, would be unable to make the necessary adjustments.

They struck their blow one year ago next Dec. 7. It must be a great comfort for them to know that a year later the United States is still staggering—still unwilling to face the implications of the loss of its rubber supply in the southwest Pacific.

Cash for Taxes

EVIDENTLY the push for paying income taxes when they fall due, instead of waiting till March 15 of the next year to make the first payment, is getting under way. Sen. George, chairman of the senate finance committee, proposes that if the treasury doesn't tell congress to enact a pay-as-you-go plan by Jan. 1 the congressmen should act on their own initiative.

It is not clear who opposes the policy of cash for taxes. More than that, it is not clear what opposition could be based on. Briefly, this is all it means:

That income taxes should be collected at the source of income, instead of paying all the money to the income earner, who proceeds to spend it, then is required to pay back what he no longer possesses. Ideally, income taxes are anticipated and money to pay them is accumulated systematically, but practically that is the prerogative only of the prudent and those who can afford to pay someone to look after their financial affairs. The ordinary worker who will be paying income taxes from now on couldn't accumulate much in the piggy bank that frequently accommodates his surplus cash. It won't take any arguing to convince him that if it's smart to collect his social security taxes at the source it would be a lot smarter to collect his income taxes at the same place.

Crucial Test of Our Discipline

OPA is looking for a way to stop panic buying in anticipation of coming shortages. A new anti-hoarding regulation compelling purchasers to declare what they have on hand is being studied.

This might work. But its chief effect probably would be to confront conscientious citizens with one more complication, while the rest grabbed, pushed and chiseled themselves into their various versions of security.

That was what happened with sugar rationing. It is what is happening now with gasoline rationing. It is what will happen with coffee rationing. Rules and regulations don't mean much to people who are determined to beat the game if they can.

Perhaps what OPA had better be thinking about, instead of more regulations, is some way to condition the people morally to the growing shortages of everything. This is a war between two ways of life. One is the totalitarian way, in which populations are treated like inmates of an institution for the criminally insane. The other way presumes that the population as a whole has within itself the ability to do the right thing if it understands and sympathizes with the objective.

The objective of the United States is to win the war. To achieve it, virtually everything in use will have to be shared or sacrificed altogether. Before victory is ours, the self-discipline of the American people will be given its crucial test—the test that will determine for generations to come whether this nation has earned the right to survive.

It is that simple. If the war effort must wait on panics, selfishness and chiseling connivance, the war will be lost. Either Americans will prove that they believe in self-government, or they will admit that Hitler is right and government must depend on whippings and purgings. There's vastly more at stake than an extra gallon of gas, or an extra pound of coffee. It might be a good idea for OPA to talk about that, instead of wondering how to plug up loopholes.

Today and Tomorrow

Need Seen for Allies To Be Prepared To Deal with Unexpected Successes.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE MUST LEARN from the mistakes of our enemies and one of the things we have to learn quickest is not to be caught unprepared and surprised by our own successes. This is what happened to Hitler when France collapsed in June, 1940. At that moment he could have won the war if the army had been prepared to exploit the military situation and if he had had the statesmanship to consolidate his victory.

But he was not ready. His generals were as much surprised as the rest of us by the sudden ending of the Battle of France and they had neither the plans nor the right equipment to seize the opportunity which was theirs to finish off Britain. Hitler was equally unready and unable to take advantage of the fact that the prostrate people of Europe would, at the zenith of German military prestige, have been willing to give the so-called new order a trial if the Nazi conquerors had had any plan for making life tolerable.

The lesson for us is that though we must continue to prepare for a long war, we must be no less prepared to take swift advantage of the opportunity, if it suddenly presents itself, to bring the war to an early conclusion.

My own impression is that our military leaders have been attending to that possibility and that some of their actions which have caused controversy or bewilderment — for example, the size of the army and the timetable of the inductions into it—are inspired by the soldierly determination not to be caught unprepared to follow up sudden and apparently unexpected success.

Foresight

Thus for example, it has often been argued that Gen. Marshall is organizing a larger army than our shipping can now transport, but what if a sudden strategic success—as in North Africa and perhaps elsewhere—should suddenly revolutionize the shipping situation in our favor? Then we shall be everlastingly grateful to Gen. Marshall for having had the foresight to be ready.

We are less well prepared politically to make the most of the opportunities which may be ours much sooner than we had expected. There is a profound reason for this unpreparedness. It is that since the armistice in 1918 in most of continental Europe the underlying condition has been one of incipient civil war. This internal struggle within most of the nations has dominated the events of these 24 years, and without an understanding of this truth the recent history of Europe is unintelligible, and the future for which we must form our policy will be quite obscure.

Thus we cannot understand first Mussolini, and then Hitler unless we remember that they were the agitators and organizers of a civil war within their own countries in which by violence intrigue and corruption they seized power and then crushed their opponents. Nor can we understand the Nazi scheme of conquest unless we remember that the path to its victories was opened up to the excellent German Army by exploiting the incipient civil war in France and in most, though not all, of its smaller victims.

The reason we must fix this in our minds now is that as we liberate occupied territory we shall uncover this unresolved European tendency to civil war. We shall find that though the overwhelming mass of all the peoples have been united by their hatred of the Hitlerian tyranny, as soon as this tyranny disappears, yes even as the end of it comes in sight, the civil struggle which has never been settled will be resumed.

Growing Problem

Indeed we must be prepared for the fact that it will have been greatly intensified and envenomed by the struggle for food and sheer survival under Hitler's occupation, and by the nervous agony which his satanic propaganda has exploited, and by the mortal feuds and vendettas which have arisen between those who resisted the enemy and those who collaborated with them.

I am not speaking of Germany, which must be considered as a case apart, but of many—though not necessarily all—of the liberated people and of the foremost among them, France. It will require the utmost wisdom and unity of purpose among the British, the Russians and ourselves to find the way by which France and some of the others can pass from military liberation to an ordered freedom without passing through the bloody horror of civil war.

In thinking and preparing our policy we must not use fictions to escape from the facts. If we do, we shall be the disappointed sentimentalists who turn into angry cynics. The fact is, that we face the tremendous task that liberation will be followed by civil war unless we are prepared to choose correctly and swiftly, as territories are liberated, the authority which the great powers will back to restore order and to negotiate the peace.

The Propaganda Menace

It Grows as United Nations Armed Forces Progress.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—There are several wartime agencies in the government whose duty it is to worry about Axis propaganda in this country. Oddly, United Nations successes in Africa and the Pacific have brought greater worries than since the war started.

In recent weeks Berlin and Rome short wave broadcasts have quadrupled their efforts to make Great Britain and the United States in particular and all the other United Nations in general suspicious of each other. This has happened almost simultaneously with United Nations successes in the Russian, African and Pacific fronts and apparently a reaction in many quarters is that it will be all right now to relax for a while.

I might add that although it is not correspondingly as important, many Washington commentators—your own included—have received a number of letters recently saying that the last election should be "a warning to warmongers in the capital that this country doesn't want any part of these foreign wars."

Time for Debunking

The unfortunate part of this is, according to government specialists here, that it has come just at the moment when there has been some unfortunate division in the United Nations over certain manipulations, public relations, and future aims.

I think perhaps it is time for a little debunking.

To get rid of the chatter "that the election was a reprimand to 'warmongers'," run over the complete list of the men elected. If there was one elected on anything but a "win the war first" platform, Washington hasn't heard of him.

Then there is the story that we are losing this war in the Pacific and that the Navy hasn't been telling the truth about what is going on there.

Grant that the Navy hasn't hastened out with every item regarding some of our misfortunes; still the story is as leaky as a wire basket.

For proof, you can ignore our own communiques and go directly to the Japs. The Jap radio lies so fast that it frequently trips over its own falsehoods, but not since the fall of Burma and the Dutch East Indies have the Japs made any claims to gains of new territory and they have admitted our important recapture of portions of those vital bases in the Solomons.

No Time To "Relax"

Among those persons whose business it is to examine and worry over enemy propaganda that floats into the United States, one of the chief concerns lately is with the "let's-relax-it's-all over" school of talk.

This is hardly a though that the Axis could foster openly while still making dire threats about what they are going to do to our troops. Yet it is Axis propaganda.

The reasoning in this school is: We'll take Africa, knock Italy out of the war in a few weeks, open a second front in the south, maybe another in the west, and it will be all over.

That doesn't take much time in telling, but Army and Navy strategists shoot it as full of holes as the box kite caught in ack-ack. In the first place the Battle of Africa isn't over yet and after that will have to come the Battle of the Mediterranean. Give a thought to how long tough little Malta has held out in this war. Give another to the fact that Hitler, with all his might, didn't dare cross the narrow Channel to invade an England that had almost no army and no air power after Dunkerque.

Need More Than Bombing

Remember also that bombing alone has never won a battle and that Genoa, Turin, even Rome could be reduced to rubble without our gaining a foot of ground in Italy.

As for Italy making a separate peace, that's pretty well scouted. There's no government in sight in Italy with which a peace could be made. Before there is, there must be a revolution that will not only have to deal with the Fascists but with the hordes of Nazis now overrunning that land.

Opening of a Western Front will be a task that will take time and planning and a vast concentration of ships and men. Even when all those hurdles are cleared, there still is Japan in the Pacific—a matter which can't be ignored unless we want to expose our own mainland to attack.

The Axis in Europe has several ways to meet the present threat.

The best guess now, however, is that it probably will dig in for a long war of attrition and in the end a negotiated peace that will leave the Nazis in power. Our job will be to see that even that strategy fails, but it might take more than "lightning war" which is already three years old.

Hoarder Pays Dearly

By The Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Eighty pounds of sugar were sacrificed because of the ring of a bell and a housewife's guilty conscience.

"I didn't answer because I thought, he was investigating hoarding," the woman told her neighbor after the uniformed man had waited at the door, and left. "But I dumped 80 pounds of sugar down the drain."

"He was from the S.P.C.A. rounding up unlicensed dogs," the neighbor told her.

IT'S A BIG HILL AND A LONG WINTER

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Monday, Nov. 28, 1932.

Jacob G. Leffler, 80, retired Marion merchant and real estate dealer, died at the City hospital.

Henry Ford was reported making "normal progress" in his recovery from an operation performed Saturday at Detroit for relief from strangulated femoral hernia and removal of his appendix.

An eleventh hour effort by representatives of four Marion county organizations to effect a 15 per cent reduction in the real estate tax duplicate before December taxes were collected ran into insurmountable obstacles when the state tax commission and the county auditor agreed that it was too late to make such a reduction. Among those seeking action on the proposed reduction were Homer T. Myers, M. J. Morral, L. E. Cookston, Dr. F. C. Smith, president of the Marion County Taxpayers association, and W. D. Brown, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Muft and Jeff club gave its annual post-Thanksgiving dance with 25 couples dancing at the Marion City club to music by Bert Myers' orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. LaMarche were committee chairmen and assisting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crissinger, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Dan LaMarche, Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaMarche, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mapes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Mathiot, all of Marion, and Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly of Mt. Gilead.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, Nov. 28, 1922.

A Paris dispatch reported that the French cabinet was reported to have given its approval to proposals for occupation of additional German territory by French troops to enforce all the clauses of the Versailles treaty, particularly those relating to indemnity. It was understood that the question of extending French military occupation to take in the Ruhr basin was to be considered at a cabinet meeting.

The Buffalo Express paid high tribute to the gridiron ability of Jim Thorpe and reported that judging from his performance in a game of the Oorang Indians of Marion against Buffalo there Sunday he had not lost much of his former football ability. His work was the outstanding feature of the game.

Mrs. Charles Sidenstricker was hostess to the O. B. club at her home on Nunin court. A miscellaneous shower was given for Miss Alice Mosier, who was to be married Thanksgiving day to Harold Russell.

Miss Louise Marie Burke gave a dinner party at her home on East Church street for the bridal party of Miss Katherine Fye and Harold Sherrer, whose wedding was set for Thanksgiving day.

Forty couples attended a dance given by the Wednesday Night Dance club with music by Hunter's orchestra. On the serving committee were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jakeway, Dr. and Mrs. O. G. "Met" Changes Face

War and Other Developments After Grand Opera.

By JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — The Metropolitan Opera is formally opened and doing business at the familiar Broadway stand. But it is no longer the theater we used to know—like the human body, it renews itself every few years.

Tickets are still sold on the basis of music and glamour. Only the tickets are sold at a $5 top instead of $7, for the first time in more than 30 years, and the glamour is better distributed.

Last Monday there were the same gaping throngs outside the house, the same blinding flash bulbs, and the same catty glances from box to box and seat to seat, to be sure the neighbors were not better done out. But the dress and costume jewelry trades have spoiled the show for the old timers.

It's not quite so glamorous when on your way to your box in a new and theoretically exclusive gown, you pass its exact copy going upstairs to the family circle. Nor is it possible to tell a real pearl dog collar from an imitation at more than ten feet.

Now "Exporting"

It used to be that the Met depended almost altogether on imported artists—there were Americans in the roster all the time, but mostly they carried spears. The situation is exactly reversed now; 48.4 per cent of the entire roster is American born, and the Metropolitan is exporting its own artists to South America and and other available opera-minded countries.

And in the old days, which means pre-depression days, Gatti-Casazza used to end practically every season with a profit. Those were the days when the subscription sale was rock-like and secure; this winter the war has cut it down, although Edward Johnson, the general manager, expects single sales to cover the drop.

As a matter of fact, he points out that even today all that stands between the Met and breaking even is taxes. Last season, with taxes forgiven, the opera would have been $18,000 in the hole, a mere bagatelle as opera companies count bagatelles.

New Penguin Attire

There is another evidence that opera changes. Not long ago the members of the Metropolitan Opera club came together in solemn conclave. Since 1892 the all-male membership of the club has sat in two impressive rows in the omnibus box on the second layer, and because of their glowing white shirt fronts and ties, backed by their dull black tailcoats, they have been known for many years as the penguins.

But all was changed at the conclave aforementioned. From now on it will be proper for a penguin to attend in a dinner coat. If the edict is brought closer to earth, it means that you and I can wear a business suit and a blue shirt, if we want.

Erich Leinsdorf took the Metropolitan Opera orchestra to Lakehurst, N. J., recently for a service men's concert. Before he began the program he turned to the audience and declared that he was glad to have a chance to prove that operatic music was not as heavy as some in the house might think.

Then he raised his baton, and the podium collapsed beneath him. "I guess it's heavier than I thought," he called over his shoulder.

My Friend Blooch

As a Man of Wide Experience He Wants Lady Tipplers Kept at Bar Where He Can Hear 'Em.

By DAMON RUNYON

ONE large city has issued an order [illegible] the ladies to sit at bars at the[ir] risk and make out. Other municipalities [illegible] trample this similar step, and my friend [illegible] the bartender, is plenty sore.

"It is nothing but a scheme to make work for us barkeeps," Blooch says, "We [illegible] have enough already in this [illegible] It really is a terrible imposition. When a [illegible]—I mean a dame—is sitting there on a stool in front of the bar, it is no trouble for the bartender to keep an eye on her and see that she does not get out of line.

"But," he says, "if she is at a table, and the order inside, she may be out of earshot of the genial barboy and he cannot hear her murmur some gent 'Oh, izzat so,' and is therefore aware of her next move which, when she is on the stool at the bar, he can always intercept at the source. The first notice the bartender gets of her new mood is when he hears the glass splintering on the brow of the gent and the latter cries watch, murder, police!

"THE changing moods of a pancake when it is rumming it up bear close watching," Blooch says. "If she comes in alone she usually holds herself aloof from the throng. She is so aloof you cannot get close enough to hand her a ripe peach. She gives her order briefly and sits there quietly as she tosses her three-fingers.

"She pays absolutely no attention to any one until about the fourth drink. Then she commences glancing at those on either side of her, especially if they are guys.

"She is thawing a little, you understand," Blooch says. "She is prepared to be friendly. She smiles at the guys very shyly. After the sixth jolt, she is in conversation with them. If she is married she tells them what a nice guy her husband is, only he has to work nights, or if they are married and have families she looks at the pictures of their kids they haul out of their pockets and advises them how to raise them.

By the ninth dram," Blooch says, "she is ready to be insulted and that is when I come nigh. If she only bursts out into sobs, I do not do anything, but if she reaches for something and say 'Now, now, now, now, now, now, now, now, now!' This causes her to turn on me and tell me what a stinker I am but it saves my other customers some inconvenience. I do not mind what she says because my wife has been telling me what a stinker I am for 15 years and my wife is an expert at telling.

"YOU just simply have to be close to them wuzzled waffles at all times to reach them," Blooch says. "You can not do it if they are at tables out of your reach. Furthermore, the post position at the bar enables the barkeep to tell to a drop when the biscuit has had too much to drink because if he sees that the stool is vacant he knows she has fallen off to the floor.

"With me," Blooch says, "this always automatically cancels any further service to a dame until she is able to climb back on the stool unassisted in three tries. If you put them under tables they are apt to fall under the tables and not be noticed until the porter sweeps out the next morning.

"My porter would quit if he had to do that because the last time he swept one up from under a table she went home and told her husband that the porter had disturbed her rest and the husband came in and wanted to lick everybody in the joint for not having more consideration for his wife. Keep them at the bar," Blooch says.

Gauleiter Laval

Associated Press Features.

Pierre Laval has been termed one of the world's most hated men, a traitor to France, self-centered, ambitious politician whose only aim is personal power. Whatever he is, he is Gauleiter of Nazi-held France he holds one of the most crucial posts in the war world.

Son of a butcher, Laval was born in 1883 in Auvergne, where the natives are short, tenacious, cool. He studied law, did newspaper work in Paris, was elected mayor of Aubervilliers in 1914. Then he was a violent left-winger, a peace-at-any-price pacifist.

Pierre Laval

In 1924, as a "conservative," he was elected to the Chamber of Deputies, became premier seven years later. In 1935 he tried to bribe Mussolini with a slice of Ethiopia to avoid war. Outraged France pushed him from office, and he remained quiet until the blitz of June, 1940, when by agitation for an armistice.

Laval became vice-premier to Petain. France fell, soon was so Vichy-washy to Hitler he was ousted. He bounced in and again.

Laval is short, dark, mustached. He always wears black suits, white shirts, string tie. He hates Britain; believes democ is dying; said Germany would win the 1941.

His greatest asset, say cynical French, his name: he can begin on one side of the and still make it spell Laval.

MICHELSON TO LEAVE POST WITH DEMOCRATS

Crack Publicity Director Will Retire: Plans To Loaf.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — Charles Michelson, 73-year-old publicity chief of the Democratic national committee, has fired his last verbal barrage, he says, at the Republican party.

The veteran reporter and ghost writer par excellence of Democratic campaign speeches for 13 years has done what friend and many Republicans—who read for a long time but the cover of his battered typewriter at party headquarters and quit politics for good.

"I'm straightening out a few things at the office," Michelson said today, "but officially I'm no longer with the committee."

The publicist, claimed by many Republicans to have been largely responsible for President Hoover's defeat for a second term in 1932, declared he didn't have to submit a formal resignation because "I threw away my contract long ago," and now is "going to loaf."

"Charley," as he is known to President Roosevelt and to the political, business and newspaper fields, had planned to wait until Edward J. Flynn resigned as national committee before quitting but said Flynn had not yet made up his mind when to get out.

The shaggy-haired publicist said he doubted whether a new publicity chief would be appointed at this time as the committee was short of funds and has just reduced its office space.

Perk Up, Coffee Freeze Ends at Midnight Tonight

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — The country's coffee pots can perk up slightly Sunday.

Tonight's midnight melting of a seven-day sales freeze will now sweeten the bitter shortage cup just a mite for the nation's java-swiggers.

Then—rationing sets in.

From then on, each grown-up (15 or older) will be permitted to purchase one pound of coffee every five weeks.

As soon as the grocer can be coaxed out of bed, coupon No. 27 in the familiar sugar ration book becomes valid for the coffee—unless you already have more than one pound on hand, in which case you swallow the lump in your throat and the excess coffee first.

In any case, don't start the family percolator to boiling over with enthusiasm. That one pound has to last until Jan. 3, when another coupon comes of age.

Unless you belong to the Roosevelt-LaGuardia save-the-grounds-and-add-a-spoon school, that boils down to about one cup a day.

However, folks have been urged not to stock up with all the family's coupons at first. It might mess up the distribution system and create temporary local shortages here and there.

So just buy what you need — don't be a drip and dry up your neighbor's dripolater.

But woe betide the bum who forgets himself on Monday and mumbles that old pre-war plea "Hey, bud — how about a cuppa coffee?"

TONI JO CALMLY AWAITS DEATH IN CHAIR TODAY

All Legal Channels of Saving Her Exhausted.

By The Associated Press

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 28—All legal channels exhausted, Mrs. Annie Beatrice (Toni Jo) Henry calmly sat in her prison cell today awaiting a trip shortly after noon to the electric chair to pay with her life for a St. Valentine Day, 1940, murder.

The black-haired 26-year-old wife of convict Claude (Cowboy) Henry appeared to have been braced by the granting of her last request—a telephone conversation with her husband yesterday. Henry spoke sobbingly, to her from the Huntsville, Texas, penitentiary where he is serving a 50-year term for murder.

Ironically, the desire of the couple to aid each other brought on the death sentence for Toni Jo, and put two escapes against the prison record of her husband.

Following her arrest for shooting Joseph P. Galloway, Houston, Texas, Salesman, she explained she had intended to use Galloway's car to rob a bank in order to obtain money with which to facilitate Henry's prison release.

RELIEF FOR LARD SUPPLY AWAITED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 — Aside from the fact that the expected heavy December-January run of hogs will provide this country with more pork meat, livestock men are also waiting the anticipated expansion (with growing impatience, it must be admitted) because it should alleviate the shortage of lard.

There is an unusually large domestic demand for lard, most of it unsatisfied, as a result of the restricted sale of other shortenings. All lard and shortenings sold are at price ceilings.

During the past 12 months, domestic consumption of lard averaged about 100,000,000 pounds a month. It would have averaged more, trade circles asserted, but for large requirements for lend-lease.

Lard in cold storage holdings on Nov. 1 totaled 173,366,000 pounds compared with 214,299,000 pounds on Oct. 1 and 223,166,000 pounds on Nov. 1, 1941.

The yield of lard per hog in the past crop year was 32.4 pounds, highest since the drought period of 1934, but not large in comparison with the pre-drought years.

In the 10 years prior to the drought, hogs yielded an average of about 35.5 pounds per head. In 1923 and 1926, the yields exceeded 37.

Livestock market observers believe hogs will average quite heavy when they do come to market. This in itself, however, would not guarantee more lard, because it might be more profitable to leave part of the fat on the pork instead of turning it into lard.

Hog prices this week declined about 10 to 15 cents, slumping to an eight months low, as receipts showed some signs of expanding. Choice steers hit $17.60, highest since 1937, on gains of 25 to 50 cents. Fat lambs advanced 15 to 25 cents.

U. S. Army Disease Rate Declines Since Nation Was Plunged Into War

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The rate of venereal disease in the American army in the United States has been falling ever since Pearl Harbor.

The decrease breaks all American military records, in war or peace. It signalizes a change of wider significance in its promise to carry over to peacetime into a new high of national health.

For the home folks are beginning to cooperate with the army and navy to make venereal disease control primarily a public health measure, a medical job instead of only a political football and a moral issue.

The army rates can not be published, due to war department request. But the broad facts are available.

In this army, the highest venereal rate never has been up to the lowest of the World war. That war in turn was way under the Civil war.

The military disease rate is unbreakably locked with the home community rates. When the first million of venereal-free young men entered the present army, some acquired venereal disease. The rates everywhere tended to reach, but not pass, those of the community where the soldiers were stationed.

Locality Affects Rates.

Furthermore, now, when an outfit moves from a community with a low rate to a high-rate community, the soldiers' rate of infection also rises. Clinching this parallel, the military infection drops when the move is reversed, going from a high to a low-rate venereal community.

The drop which began after Pearl Harbor is considered mainly due to medical rather than patriotic and psychological reasons. Pearl Harbor coincided with completion of medical organization, which placed a venereal disease control officer in every military encampment. The work of these officers quickly showed results.

Their main weapon was curbs on commercial prostitution, hitting at the profits of men and women operators who procured girls, and at the graft protecting them.

Also at the officers' disposal, and invoked twice to date, is the May act. This law makes commercial prostitution a federal offense in areas near military encampments, when so designated by the secretary of war or the secretary of the navy. The act was adopted by congress in July, 1941, and first invoked 10 months later in Tennessee about Camp Forrest.

The prohibited area is huge, a solid block of 37 counties in the middle of the state, blanketing it from border to border north and south.

The military authorities did not invoke this act arbitrarily. The governor of Tennessee, state health officials and other authorities requested the measure, in conference and in cooperation with the army. Law-makers of Tennessee are now considering new state laws to carry on against prostitution.

Old Tennessee laws did not hit prostitution very hard. Operators and owners of a house of prostitution could be enjoined. If they disregarded the injunction, they could be imprisoned for 30 days, or fined $500 or both. There were small fines for loitering around a house of prostitution. There was no law against soliciting or practicing prostitution.

Under the May act, engaging in prostitution or aiding it are punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or one year imprisonment, or both.

The venereal rate at Camp Forrest already has begun to drop. One month after the act was invoked, investigators of the American Social Hygiene Association, Inc., found no prostitution in 17 of the 27 counties. Sixteen months previously Route 41 between Nashville and Chattanooga had been found to be sprinkled with tough places, in easy thumbing distance of camps and similar conditions on other highways in that portion of Tennessee. Now there resorts are closed.

The second invocation of the May act was in North Carolina, near the end of last July, in 12 counties about Fort Bragg. Again, this was done at the request of army in cooperation with the governor and state health authorities.

Case Is Different.

But in one respect North Carolina is quite a different experimental area from Tennessee. Whereas Tennessee's laws had been comparatively easy on prostitution, North Carolina was rated as one of the top 14 states in the nation in effective social hygiene laws. This rating was made by the American Social Hygiene Association, Inc.

Partly as a result of the strong North Carolina code, the local cooperation with the FBI, the May act enforces, was immediately highly effective. It is too soon for statistics from Fort Bragg, but the medical authorities have no doubt of improvement.

The army has figures showing how each American encampment community compares, in venereal disease, with every other similar community. These figures are not made public. They are given privately to authorities of each community, as an aid to strengthening the social hygiene codes.

ONLY MARINE TO ESCAPE WAKE HOME

Describes His Departure from Island as Routine.

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 28—The only man to escape death or capture at Wake Island, Lieut. Col. Walter L. J. Bayler, today modestly described his departure from Wake as "simple routine."

Back in his Coronado home for the first time since the war started, Bayler said in an interview that his air journey from Wake resulted from compliance with orders "something every Marine does every day."

Bayler came here from the Solomons where he had extended duty in the aerial warfare over Guadalcanal.

Bayler had heard reports that he flew his own battered plane, or that a Navy patrol plane which landed at Wake was sent there for the specific purpose of bringing him out.

Other reports, Bayler said, had him on a raft, with a canoe paddle in the open ocean.

"It was the simple routine thing of following out orders that every Marine does every day," Bayler related. "This plane flew in with a small amount of official mail for the units stationed on Wake. My work was finished on Wake and I was needed at Midway. My orders read to proceed by first available air transportation to Midway and this was the first plane and the pilot had room for one."

Uruguay Reports Say Mussolini Seriously Ill

By The Associated Press

MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, Nov. 28—Reports from a reliable South American diplomatic source said today that Premier Mussolini was gravely ill and, if he became fully incapacitated, might be succeeded by a government likely to discuss a separate peace for Italy.

(These reports were similar to those of a few days ago from London to the effect that disaffected military leaders in Germany were forming a junkers junta with a view to isolating Hitler and taking control of the government. There is a possibility that all were inspired by axis leaders in an effort to promote over-confidence among the United Nations.

The South American source, whose name could not be disclosed, said Mussolini was suffering from stomach ulcers complicated by heart trouble.

also of Bay City, escaped uninjured but was suffering from extreme shock.

Drivers of the two trucks struck by the Parker car, Henry Fremont, Caldwell, 32, of Upper Sandusky and Harris Mullins of Cincinnati, were uninjured. Caldwell was driving the pickup truck owned by the H. C. Construction Co. of Upper Sandusky and Mullins was operator of the large semi-trailer truck owned by the Transportation Service Corp. of Detroit.

State highway patrol officials investigating the accident said both the Parker car and the Upper Sandusky-owned pickup truck were demolished.

According to the patrol's report, the Parker car was southbound and both trucks were northbound. The Parker car, patrolman said, apparently struck, or was sideswiped by the truck. The force of the impact hurled the Parker auto directly into the path of the oncoming pickup truck.

Mrs. Parker and the other occupants of the auto were enroute to Zanesville where they expect to visit her son, Harry Parker. Besides the son at Zanesville and the daughter who was in City hospital, Mrs. Parker is survived by one other daughter, Mrs. Esther Nelson of Bay City.

After a verdict of "accidental death" had been returned by the Wyandot county coroner, the body was removed to the Bolingman & Co. funeral home at Upper Sandusky.

Congress Sounded Out on Brief Adjournment

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — Leaders sounded out sentiment in both houses today on a proposal to adjourn Dec. 15 for the first formal holiday congress has had since Nov. 1939.

With most controversial legislation apparently sidetracked temporarily, both Democratic and Republican chieftains were reported to favor a brief breathing spell before the new congress convenes on Jan. 6.

Reorganization of both chambers will be in order then and although Republicans pushed their representation by victories in the November voting to a new high for the New Deal era, both houses are expected to remain firmly in Democratic hands.

Tank Destroyers To Be Given Test in North Africa

Movement of mechanized equipment into Tunisia by both the allies and the axis is on a scale to suggest that battles of annihilation will persist throughout much of that area, K A N Anderson's budding offensive.

New Lee-Grant tanks of the U. S. armored force, a tread-tracked speedster mounting 105 millimeter guns, were among the early arrivals in the North African army and should help provide the edge needed finally to pen up the Germans and Italians or drive them into the sea. They complement both wheeled and fixed anti-tank artillery.

The use of tanks against tanks usually is a expensive business for one side or the other.

Hitler flew 12-ton tanks to Tunisia and has moved heavier models by sea for what may be his last stand in North Africa.

Uncensored by axis quarters, Reuters reported last week that Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian had been hustled across the Mediterranean in an effort to help Rommel out of the hole Guderian is the tank expert publicized by the Nazis as "the phantom general" for his exploits in the 1940 campaign against France.

Maj. Gen. Charles W. Ryder, who commands the American mobile units attached to the Anderson expedition, presumably was assigned quantities of tank destroyers as well as tanks, armored cars and artillery by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The 105 gun, relatives now to the American navy, has a diameter a half-inch larger than Hitler's 88s and greater hitting power.

Against the lack of side and top armor, the destroyer crew has greater visibility and maneuverability than tanks and less heat, noise and vibration.

MADAME CHIANG REACHES AMERICA

Here for Medical Treatment; Will Visit White House.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 — Madame Chiang Kai-shek, famed first lady of China's fighting millions, is back today in America—the land of her school days.

This time it was the after-effects of an accident on one of her daring trips to the Sino-Japanese battlefront that brought the wife of China's generalissimo to the United States. When or how she arrived was not disclosed.

But there was immediate speculation that her trip might also spell new anti-Japanese strategy as well as cement more firmly the fighting efforts of the two allied nations.

A White House announcement said yesterday the woman who helped weld China's warring factors into a mighty military unit was here for treatment of injuries sustained five years ago when a tire blew out on the automobile in which she was riding—under heavy Japanese fire—while visiting the front.

After treatments are concluded, she will visit President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the announcement said.

That the American-educated woman who has been termed "the brains of China" would discuss war questions with the President was taken as a matter of course.

Such a discussion would be familiar ground to her. During her husband's rise to power over some 450,000,000 people, she was his envoy extraordinary and later was a potent power in rallying the people against Japanese invasion.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS JAM STORES IN OHIO

One of Biggest Holiday Rushes Comes Early.

By The Associated Press

Jammed stores, snarled traffic, tinkling cash registers, perspiring Santa Clauses, harassed clerks and eager customers—all add up to one of the earliest and biggest Christmas rushes on record in Ohio.

Merchants throughout the state today reported record pre-December Christmas sales as housewives thronged stores to complete purchases before gasoline rationing becomes effective next Tuesday.

Many Ohioans, their pockets bulging for the first time in years, cut loose on spending sprees early because they feared shortages of gift items might develop. Others already had made purchases for men overseas and were buying for those at home.

Mothers took advantage of the long Thanksgiving school holiday to bring their children downtown for that all-important conference with Santa. Good weather was a factor, too, in many parts of the state.

A Cleveland bank official reported shopping was "probably the greatest in history for this time of the year." Toy sales there were up 100 per cent in October over the same month last year.

One of "the best days in the history of merchandising" was recorded in Columbus Friday.

Ohio State-Iowa Seahawk Game Shares Spotlight With Army-Navy Tussle

40,000 See Big Nine Champs Clash with Bierman-Coached Eleven.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28—Ohio State, with the Western conference football championship already tucked away, ends its season today by tackling the Iowa Seahawks, one of the nation's top-flight service teams.

About 40,000 fans were expected to see how a good, speedy college eleven would stack up against the Seahawks' galaxy of seasoned college and professional football stars. The Seahawks have beaten one service team and six college squads and have lost only to Notre Dame. Ohio has won eight of its nine games.

Lauds Ohio Team

Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman, former Minnesota coach and now head of the football team at the Iowa Navy pre-flight school, said upon his arrival here more than 90 minutes late last night, "Ohio has a good team and it should be a real game."

Ohio Coach Paul Brown, pointing out that the Seahawks were "big and powerful," said "we'll give 'em a battle and they'll have to lick us to win."

Colonel Bierman was seeking not only to knock off the newly crowned conference champions, but to improve his gridiron record against the Bucks. While at Minnesota, his teams split even in two engagements with Ohio.

To Start Ohioans

In the Seahawk line-up were three ex-Ohio Staters—Halfbacks Dick Fisher of Columbiana and James Langhurst of Willard, and Tackle Charles Ream of Navarre.

Brown called on the same team that faced Michigan to start against the Seahawks, with Quarterback-Capt. George Lynn, Halfbacks Paul Sarringhaus and Ike Horvath, and Fullback Gene Fekete slated for the ball handling chores.

The probable line-ups.

Seahawks	Pos.	Ohio State
Antil	LE	Steinberg
Ream	LT	Willis
Flick	LG	Dean
Svendsen	C	Vickroy
Gage	RG	Houston
Schultz	RT	Csuri
Kutner	RE	Shaw
Evashevski	QB	Lynn
Langhurst	LH	Sarringhaus
Fisher	RH	Horvath
Jankowski	FB	Fekete

NEW YORK, Nov 28 — Even though the armed forces move into the colleges to an even greater extent than they already have—and from all we hear, there must be something cooking along that line . . . it doesn't necessarily mean the end of football for the duration . . . Big-time football will have tough sledding, anyway, but after soaking up some of the enthusiasm for the game showed by officers at the Navy pre-flight schools, we're convinced that football will be played somehow as long as the Navy is training fliers.

BOWL INVITATIONS AT STAKE IN GRID CONTESTS TODAY

Athens, Boston, Seattle and Nashville Among Cities Awaiting Results.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — Today's program virtually completes football's first campaign of the present war and no matter how good or how bad the team's record, nowhere will sun-down be more eagerly awaited than at Athens, Boston, Seattle and Nashville.

Those cities are sites of games involving teams with bowl ambitions and today's outcomes may determine which bids—if any—are received.

Generally, however, there also will be concern regarding games at Annapolis, where Army and Navy decide the service championship, before 12,000; at Ann Arbor, Mich., where Iowa and Michigan decide which is to be the third team in the Big Ten; and at Los Angeles where 80,000 will sit in a game between Notre Dame and Southern California which decides nothing.

Athens Game

The Athens game will draw most of the bowl attention because both participants, all-winning Georgia Tech and once-beaten Georgia, are claimants for post-season gold. Should the Yellowjackets successfully withstand Georgia's wrath, it is expected Tech will head west for the Rose Bowl.

If Georgia wins, however, the Bulldogs might get the chance to display Frankie Sinkwich to the Californians with Tech going to either the Cotton Bowl as the foe for Texas or to New Orleans where Loyola College is expected to be the party of the second part in the Sugar Bowl.

The Eagles must dispose of a traditionally fiery opponent in Holy Cross before checking the time-tables to the south. Although the Bostonians are 4 to 1 favorites it will be the first time this season that one of Coach Denny Myers' regulars won't be able to start, center Fred Naumetz being the victim of a bronchial attack.

Seattle's offering is the Washington State-Washington contest in which a triumph for the Cougars would clinch at least a share of the Pacific Coast conference title and a possible western Rose Bowl nomination.

Nashville Clash

Nashville is host to the Vanderbilt-Tennessee affair and the Vols, after a sputtering start, have attracted enough attention in their late season frays to gain bowl stature.

Three of the four pre-flight teams, recently declared out of the bowl limelight by official Washington, are active today with the Iowa Seahawks at Ohio State; North Carolina Cloudbusters at Fordham in a homecoming for Lieut. Comdr. James Crowley; and Alabama battling the Georgia Flyers.

Rice opposes Baylor and Southern Methodist takes on Texas Christian in strictly Southwestern conference affairs and Kansas State closes the Big Six season by visiting Nebraska.

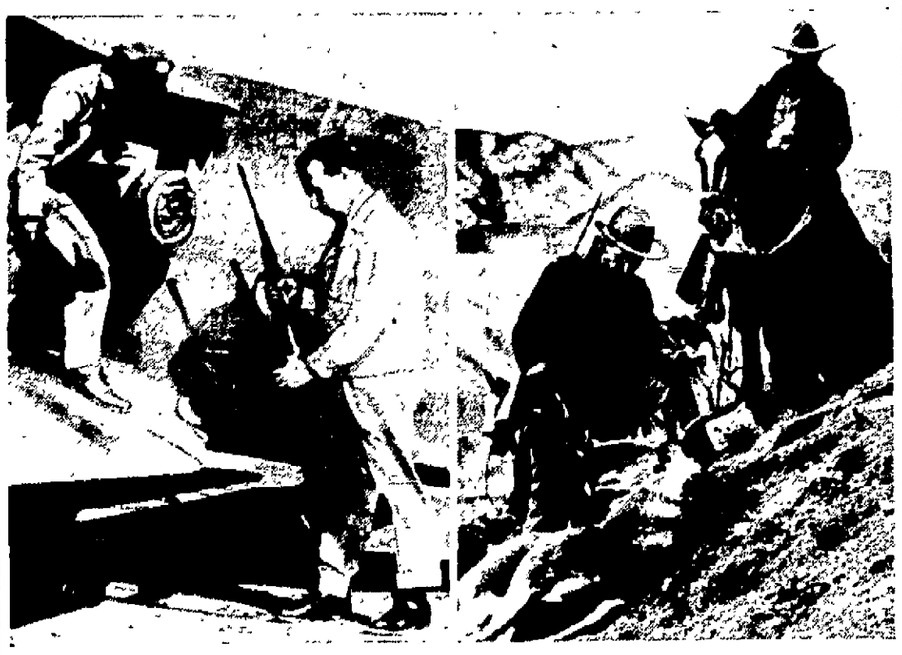
Elk Hunters Fly to Sawtooth Mountains



A hunter loads equipment on plane for flight to elk country.

Guide Taylor Williams holds antlers of a deer shot in Sawtooth.

Wide World Features

HOOD'S RANCH, SAWTOOTH MOUNTAINS, IDAHO — Out here in the wild grandeur of Idaho's back country it's open season on a quarter of a million big game animals and at least an equal number of armchair experts who said the war would put an end to all outdoor sport.

It takes tires, gasoline, ammunition and time away from high-paid jobs to go a-hunting the wary deer and the wily elk, the wise guys said, and the way things looked up to even a few weeks ago the antlered denizens of the Middle Fork country could indeed have looked forward to a quiet autumn.

But prognosticators to the contrary, there are more red-hatted hunters slipping through the trees about this tiny ranch settlement than ever before, and the fish and game department at Boise thinks that by the end of the hunting season this year it will have issued more permits of all kinds than last year's all-time high of 175,000.

Airplane Or Horseback

The seasoned guides who annually chaperoned the incoming dudes into rifle-shot of deer, elk, bear and mountain goat hereabouts explain it this way:

The word has gone out, they say, that you can't wear the tread off your tires on Idaho roads into the big game country because there aren't any roads—you fly in in an hour or two or you pack in with horses and a guide in a day or two. You go out the same way, and while you're here you travel on horseback or on foot, whichever you prefer.

So, with thousands of square miles of California closed to hunters by war restrictions, and all of Oregon closed this year because of the forest fire hazard, a lot of folks are forgetting about inflation and next year's income taxes during a quick junket into the fastness of the Sawtooth mountains of Idaho, hoping to come out with enough game to let them laugh all winter at threats of meatless days and food rationing.

Next year, the old-timers admit freely, everyone may stay home because of a real shortage of ammunition.

To further confound the sure-thing boys, it should be pointed out that the fancy expeditions carrying cases of Scotch, hand-engraved rifles and eider-down sleeping bags are being made by pack train, while the ordinary fellow who takes a dozen bottles of beer, his uncle's .30-.30 and Junior's Boy Scout blanket is going in by plane, because air travel is cheaper in both time and dollars.

Latest estimates of the state game department show there are 166,000 deer, 38,000 elk, 14,000 antelope, 4,500 mountain goat and 12,500 bear in the state. In addition, there are 1,110 moose and 2,025 mountain sheep which may not be legally hunted.

Cheaper to Fly

Flying in, the cost of bagging two deer and an elk may run as low as $50 a person including the aerial freight service on animals killed to the nearest town. The cost for a pack trip probably would be a minimum of $85 per person, plus the expense and trouble involved in protecting the meat on the more leisurely way out. Both estimates are exclusive of licenses and ammunition.

Each hunter may bag two deer, an elk, an antelope, a mountain goat and a bear in Idaho each year. Most of the visitors are after deer—one or two apiece—and elk.

The Bully Beef Express Keeps Yanks Fighting

By MURLIN SPENCER
AP War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 28 — The Americans call it "the Bully Beef Express."

But there's a note of respect when they use that name for, of all the fliers who ride the skies over embattled New Guinea, the pilots of "the Bully Beef Express" are among the most daring, the most skillful and the hardest working.

Unarmed, except for the .45-caliber automatics which the pilots carry, and virtually cold meat for any enemy plane, these Douglas and Lockheed army transports sweep in and out over enemy territory to land within a few miles of the Japanese lines to deliver their cargoes and pull away again.

I have seen them fly directly over a Japanese anti-aircraft gun position so low that the Japanese could not fire their anti-aircraft batteries but did blaze away with machine-guns.

Unshaven pilots will stand beside the planes when they have landed and bellow for men to hurry and unload them so they can get going before some Zero should happen by.

They carry soldiers, natives, ammunition and what-not. They land in fields even the early-day barnstormers would have shunned.

The pilots are all members of the army transport service. American troops now fighting the battle of Buna owe a great deal to them for they've delivered them ammunition for their guns and food for their stomachs.

Who are these pilots of "the Bully Beef Express?"

They're men like Lieut. J. M. Rodgers of Birmingham, Ala., and Lieut. W. D. Wells of Ovid, N. Y., and not long ago a high school coach at Jeffersonville, O.

There are also men like Master Sergeant Michael Kulisch of Harrisburg, Pa., who help keep the planes going.

MT. GILEAD, Nov. 28 — Approximately 155 tons of scrap metal were collected in the Morrow county schools during the recent drive for scrap according to F. E. Honnold, county superintendent of schools. Total by schools show that Cardington was first with almost 50 tons of metal collected; Edison, 35; Chesterville, 25; Johnsville, 15; Marenge, five and one-half; Bloominggrove, five and Fulton, four.

REACH PAY AGREEMENT

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28 — Employes of the Selby Shoe Co. of Portsmouth will receive $25,379 due under the fair labor standards act through an agreement filed in U. S. district court yesterday. Approximately 1,400 workers are affected. Judge John H. Druffel enjoined the firm from further violations of the act.

Only 12,000 Witness Clash of Servic Teams at Annapolis Today.

By The Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 28 — Army and Navy [illegible] give a new touch to inter-collegiate football today.

By presidential order the nation's two military ac[illegible] emies who've been meeting 'most every year since 18[illegible] tangle in the vest-pocket edition of their traditional s[illegible] ice scramble in tiny Thompson stadium, and though [illegible] schools are going to lose $100,000 on the deal, they both love it.

That is because this is the war-time Army-Navy game. It's being played because a few Navy men stepped in, just when all signs pointed to its cancellation, and pleaded that just to keep the ball rolling, this one should be played "on the house."

Switched From Philadelphia

So President Roosevelt switched it from Philadelphia's mammoth Municipal stadium, with its 100,000 seating capacity, to Thompson stadium, where 20,000 is a full house.

As a result this 43rd Army-Navy game will be played for about 12,000 of the neighbors, including the naval academy's student body. And, since West Point's cadet corps won't be able to come down, the Middies' regiment is going to be cut down the middle, so one half will cheer for Navy and the other for Army.

Even the Army mule has a Navy tinge this time. The regular cadet mascot stayed in West Point and a nearby farmer loaned the boys a burro.

And, from this safe spot behind the lines, it looks as if Navy may have to recall the loan before the game is over. For, listening to the experts you get the idea that the Middies don't even have to show up this time so powerful is Army's 5 to 13 favored outfit. Even Navy Coach Billick Whelchel admits his boys are "completely outclassed."

Lucille Ball, Victor Mature Starred in Palace Feature

"Seven Days' Leave" To Be Shown Through Wednesday; "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" Coming.

Co-starring Lucille Ball and Victor Mature, "Seven Days' Leave" will appear on the screen of the Palace theater Sunday through Wednesday. The plot tells the exploits of an Army draftee who is trying to win a fortune and not lose the girl he loves. Mature is draftee while Miss Ball plays the girl. Shortly before he is due to sail overseas, Mature learns that he has inherited $100,000. Planning to marry his fiancee, played by Mapy Cortes, Mature and a group of his buddies hasten to New York to claim the money. But there is a slight hitch. Under the terms of the will, Vic must marry an heiress, portrayed by Miss Ball. She is already engaged to another man, and Mature's charm doesn't get him very far. At first he intends merely to marry her for a few hours, collect the inheritance and then let her get a divorce so he can marry Mapy. But he soon discovers that he has fallen in love with Miss Ball and matters become complicated. Vic's pals try to get Lucille's fiance out of the way and expedite the match, but when she finds out Mature's financial reasons for wanting to marry her, the fireworks begin. Harold Peary as "Gildersleeve" and Ginny Sims are included in the supporting cast. Freddy Martin and Les Brown and their orchestras furnish the musical background.

One of America's favorite stories, "Mrs Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," will show Thursday through Saturday at the Palace. Fay Bainter is seen in the title role of the film which recounts the troubles and joys of an "over the tracks" family. Tiny Carolyn Lee has the role of the sometimes adorable and sometimes naughty Europena, youngest of the Wiggs brood. Hugh Herbert portrays the lovable scalaway who runs a matrimonial agency. He falls in love with a customer, Vera Vague, when he discovers she has a tiny pension and also earns money as a seamstress. Included in the support cast are John Archer and Barbara Britton in the romantic leads. Carl "Alfalfa" Switzer, Betty Brewer, Mary Thomas and Billy Lee.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Nov. 29

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise of a continuation of happiness and pleasant and prosperous relations, if a determined effort be made to maintain happiness, good will and congenial employments. This means the decided determination not to be carried into argument, dissension or ill will by indulging in turbulent, impetuous and reckless acts and words. Benefits and extended happiness depend on exercising charms and graces of personality.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a profitable and pleasant year if they will preserve personal harmony, good will and pleasant attitudes in spite of possible disappointments, defeats or other forms of

A child born on this day may have a rebellious, impetuous and willful nature which may unfit it to cope with disappointments, when amiability, steadiness and good nature might result in turning the tide.

• • •

For Monday, Nov. 30

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of outstanding achievements and brilliant coups, probably of such character as to merit public approval of community groups, political, secret or fraternal bodies. It is a place in the limelight of wide renown, and yet it is probable there may be some sudden visitation or collapse unless great prudence is exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of spectacular achievement or an extraordinary adventure of such dramatic nature as to propel them into the public eye, with wide acclaim and honors. Groups, fraternities or political organizations join in the rush to support and shower pleasant rewards. Nevertheless there is sign of sudden downfall, estrangement or other frustration unless care be taken not to act with impetuosity or emotionalism.

A child born on this day should have qualities of extraordinary worth for attaining public, community and secret assistance and acclaim, a high and honored position which it may have to fight hard to maintain.

Marion Film Stars Lowe

"Klondike Fury" To Be Shown at Marion Through Monday.

Edmund Lowe, in "Klondike Fury," which opens at the Marion theater Saturday midnight and shows through Monday, is a brain specialist who has been ousted from the medical profession after failing in an operation. He alters the airplane ferrying service and crashes in the Klondike. Ralph Morgan portrays a rugged doctor of the northern wilderness, William Henry is a partial paralytic and Lucille Fairbanks is seen as the operator of an isolated trading post.

"Bowery at Midnight," also showing through Monday, is a terror tale starring Bela Lugosi as a college professor and a master criminal.

"The Magnificent Dope," a satire on American "success schools," will appear Tuesday and Wednesday. The film stars Henry Fonda, Don Ameche and Lynn Bari. Fonda is the "dope," and Ameche the "success professor" with Miss Bari as his press agent. Edward Everett Horton heads the supporting cast.

"United We Stand," showing Tuesday and Wednesday, is the story of the last quarter-century—from Versailles to Pearl Harbor. The story is told by Lowell Thomas.

Thursday through Saturday "A Man's World" will show at the Marion. It is the story of sabotage in a chromite mining town and stars Marguerite Chapman, Larry Parks and William Wright.

Tim Holt in "Thundering Hoofs" will complete the double bill. The story concerns a feud between two stage coach companies.

EARLY RESPONSE IN SEAL SALE URGED

Chairman Asks Purchasers To Mail Checks Early.

Prompt return of remittances for the 1942 Christmas seals was urged today by officers of the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis league.

O. H. P. Snyder, chairman of the sale, asked that those financially unable to buy the entire $2 worth of seals sent with each letter buy as many as possible and return the remainder.

Early returns of money and seals will save the league the expense of sending "reminder" cards and will make it possible to make an early report of progress of the sale to the state and national headquarters.

Dr. E. L. Brady is president of the league, Dr. O. M. Young is vice president, Mrs. Grace Ulsh is secretary, G. W. Anderson is treasurer and Mrs. W. E. Miley is executive secretary.

Serving with them are Dr. Donald Shira, Dr. N. Sifritt, Dr. M. Weinbaum, Dr. C. L. Baker, A. W. Kette, T. J Frencks, Prosecuting Attorney James E. Reed, County Supt. D. T. Mills, Supt. E. E. Holt, O. H. P. Snyder, Cecil W. Gabler, Mrs. J. O. Thuma, Mrs. S. E. Morral, Mrs. J. L. Meredith, Mrs. Fred K. Dix, Mrs. Donald Cookston, Rev. J. B. Holloway of Trinity Baptist church, Mrs. H. J. Kightlinger and Mrs. Charles F. Jones.

FEATURED IN "NOW, VOYAGER" AT OHIO

Above are Bette Davis and Paul Henreid who are co-starred in "Now, Voyager" Thursday for an eight-day engagement at the Ohio theater.

War Fliers Film at Ohio

"Thunder Birds" Now Playing Through Wednesday; "Now, Voyager" Booked.

"Thunder Birds," the story in technicolor of the soldiers of the air is now playing through Wednesday at the Ohio theater. The film tells the story of democracy's flying avengers, how they win their wings and sometimes lose their hearts in the process. Starred in the picture are Gene Tierney, Preston Foster and John Sutton. Much of the action was filmed at Arizona's famed Thunderbird and Falcon fields, with cadets from 11 United Nations participating.

The plot, mounted on a background of roaring action in the sky, concerns the efforts of Foster, a flying instructor, to sprout wings on the burly shoulders of Sutton, who appears as an English cadet. Together they work toward that goal on the field. But after hours they are bitter rivals for the affections of Miss Tierney.

Bette Davis is starred in "Now, Voyager" which will open Thursday for an eight-day run. Co-starred with her is the romantic Viennese actor, Paul Henreid. In the supporting cast are Claude Rains, Gladys Cooper, Bonita Granville and Ilka Chase. Miss Davis plays the role of a member of a wealthy Boston family who is so completely dominated by her mother that she has a nervous breakdown. With the aid of her clever sister-in-law (Ilka Chase) and a psychiatrist (Claude Rains) she greatly improves her mental outlook and goes on a luxury cruise.

On shipboard she meets a young man, played by Henreid, and they fall deeply in love. She learns Jerry is married and the father on an unhappy, morbid girl whose childhood is very similar to her own. Since marriage is impossible because of his invalid wife, the two part. Later in the psychiatrist's rest home after another nervous breakdown, she meets an unhappy child who turns out to Henreid's maladjusted young daughter. She becomes friendly with the girl and uses all her time and energy to rehabilitate the child.

PEACE STOCKS ARE POPULAR

Fleet Scuttling Strengthens Belief War's Turning Point Has Been Passed.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — There was a little more buying emphasis on peace stocks in today's brief market but many leaders were permitted to shift for themselves over a narrowly irregular route.

The mass suicide of the French fleet at Toulon further strengthened the general conviction in Wall Street that the war's turning point had been passed and its duration appreciably shortened. Switching was in favor of stocks that stand to benefit by a relatively quick ending of the world conflict.

Transfers for the two hours were around 300,000 shares.

Eastern Air Lines registered its best price for 1942 and United Air Lines was up most of the day. In the new high class also were Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola and International Telephone.

Lacking rising power were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Western Union, Allied Chemical, Phelps Dodge and International Nickel.

Bonds were uneven. Commodities steadied.

FUND LEADERS GET REPORTS

Community Foundation Board Outlines Plans for Year.

Members of the board of trustees of the Marion Community Foundation, Inc., Friday night held their first meeting since the United War Chest campaign went over the top in a campaign to raise $104,361.73. The meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. A large part of the evening was devoted to discussion of reports and plans for carrying on the foundation's work for the coming year.

Agencies listed in the National Community Fund chest, which will share in the city and county drive, will be paid on a monthly basis, the same as the local agencies, the board decided. Funds required by the local Civilian Defense committee and the proposed day nursery, both of which have been allocated budgets, will receive their money upon application of their respective committees and upon the approval of the board of trustees. These agencies will follow the procedure of the local agencies and present itemized reports of expenditures to the board.

Will Name Committee

Following a lengthy discussion of the proposed day nursery, to be operated for the convenience of mothers engaged in war work, the board agreed that naming of a committee to study and analyze the situation in Marion and present their findings to the board, would be the proper procedure.

An incomplete report on the campaign receipts was given. According to the report by C. W. Smoot, auditor, dated Nov. 19, receipts to that date amounted to $104,494.50. Since that date pledges and checks have been received at the foundation's office totaling a nice sum, and upon the completion of the auditor's report there will be a considerable amount over the campaign goal of $104,361.73, the figures indicate.

Workers Praised

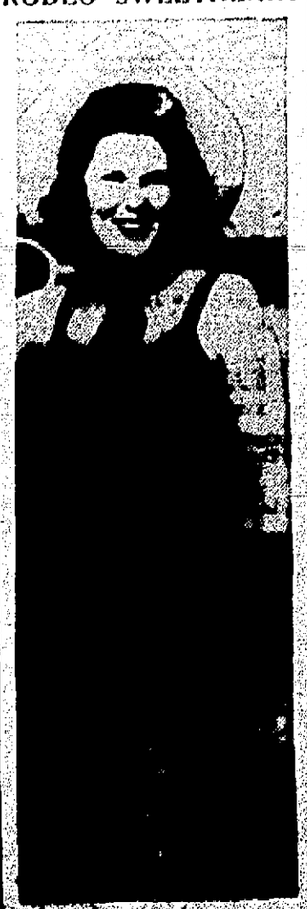
Members of the board were enthusiastic in their praise of the results of the drive and the manner in which it was conducted. It was the opinion of the board that the success of the drive was the result of the untiring efforts of the workers and the generous support of the citizens of the city and county. Coming in for a generous share of commendation was the low cost of staging the drive. This year's expense amounted to $1,017.03, in comparison with $3,184.92 last year when a campaign agency was in charge. This year's campaign was staged with local workers entirely.

With the exception of postage stamps, the cost of supplies, work and other details was higher this year, the reports brought out. A comparison of figures follows, the first representing last year's expenditure and the second figures the 1942 expenditure: postage $60-$55.74; payroll $220-$197.33; signs $66.40-$89; printing $274-267.10; office supplies $67.94-$58.95; advertising $59.52-$332.50; equipment and rent $17-$7.45; telephone $12.90-$8.87. Additional expenses last year included power $2.40, miscellaneous $31.44; preparatory work $37.70, business survey $75.62, total $214.92 plus $2,250 for conducting the campaign.

O. K. 25 YEARS LATER

ALBANY, N. Y.—Pvt. Eugene V. O'Sullivan is wondering if, like rare wines, eyesight improves with age. The 44-year-old soldier was rejected 25 years ago for a visual defect. But the same doctor who turned him down for army service in 1917, O. K.'d him this time when he reported for induction.

RODEO SWEETHEART



An international sweetheart of rodeo cowboys and cowgirls, Mary Parker Bridges, 22, rodeo queen of California, has been selected by a group of producers to reign as queen of the 1942 Orange Western Rodeo to be held in Los Angeles, Nov. 28.

P. Turner Heads New Division of Glidden Company

P. TURNER

P. Turner, former president of Old Fort Mills, will head a new division of the Glidden company in Indianapolis, Ind., to be devoted to manufacture of feeds and processing of soybeans, according to a news report today from Indianapolis. The new division will be known as Glidden Feed Mills.

Mr. Turner has been in Indianapolis nearly two months organizing a staff to market the company's products throughout the country, and supervising installation of new equipment.

Machinery estimated to cost more than half a million dollars will be used in the plant. Fifty different types of poultry, hog and livestock feeds will be produced, and the soybean oil extracted at the plant will be used by the parent company for its variety of products.

The plant, in addition to large storage silos, includes 14 buildings of brick and concrete construction. It formerly was the plant of the American Hominy Mills.

Mr. Turner is a native of LaRue. Before helping to found Old Fort Mills here he was associated with a Fort Wayne company. He sold his interests in Old Fort Mills several months ago.

Masonic Group Holds Election

Charles Buente was elected captain and Albert J. Firestone president of the Fellowcraft team at a meeting of the team and officers of Marion Lodge No. 70, Free and Accepted Masons, last night.

Other officers elected were George O. Lockwood, assistant captain; Harley U. Landes, vice president; Herbert C. Wolfe, secretary; Charles Bloomingdale, treasurer.

Plans were discussed to attend the district meeting Monday night at Richwood. Stuart E. Jones of Marion, deputy grand master of the 15th Masonic district, will be in charge of the meeting.

The Entered Apprentice and Fellowcraft degrees were conferred on a class of candidates.

Officers Selected By Class at Greenwood

Florence Butterworth was elected president of the Workers for Christ class of Greenwood Evangelical church at the home of Barbara Jean Peterman at 474 Van Buren street Tuesday night. Other officers elected included Barbara Jean Peterman, secretary and Mary Price, assistant secretary. Mrs. LeRoy Hanning, the teacher, read a Scripture lesson and offered prayer. A discussion of work done in Kentucky was led by Miss Jeannette Halley of Salyersville, Ky.

Wool Market Sees Better Times Ahead

BOSTON, Nov. 28 — The Commercial Bulletin said today: "While the volume of business in the wool market has been rather negative this week, the atmosphere is gradually clearing up, with the proposal by the government to increase the wool quota for worsted mills on civilian wear in the first half of 1943.

"The conclusion of the negotiations between our government and the Uruguayan wool commission for the purchase of 30,000 bales of old clip wool and the underwriting to June 1, next, of 37,500 bales of the new clip furnishes a better basis for calculations.

"Western operations have been negligible this week.

"Mohair moves moderately at steady rates."

The paper published the following quotations:

Domestic fleeces — Delaine unwashed 60-50; ½ blood combing 50-51; ¾ blood combing 53-54; ¼ blood combing 53-54.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MY RUSE succeeded better than it deserved, for Georges refused to rid himself from his gloom and resumed his saga of escape.

"With two others I lived what seemed to be endless days and nights in that fishing boat," he said. "We scorched by day and froze by night. How we escaped being wrecked I have no idea, but finally we got through to England. There I found friends and thought I had found a haven.

"I had changed my appearance, but had not adopted this atrocious disguise. I was careful not to appear in public places, but someone much have recognized me and passed the word along to men who wanted to be rid of me. I was shot at twice, and there were other attempts to kill me.

"Then my friends and I decided that I must come to this country in a fool-proof disguise. But as it turned out, you saw through me. I don't know who else may know."

Clever Disguise

"I don't believe anybody does," I said. "After studying you closely that night in the cafe, I felt sure you were a young man disguised. Most folks would have put you down as an eccentric old exhibitionist, proud of his hair and beard."

"That is the effect I tried to give," he said, "and why I made myself so conspicuous on every possible occasion. I figured that was the next best thing to looking absolutely ordinary, for which I am too tall."

"And far too good-looking, Georges," I said with a chuckle.

"Thank you," he said with an embarrassed flush, and I saw that his gloom and doubt had lessened. "As I said, the next best thing was to adopt a very conspicuous role, and I am glad you think I succeeded."

Conspirators Deceived

"You certainly did," I rejoined heartily. "But you told me in the cafe that you were in great danger. Are they on your trail over here?"

"Yes, and no," he said slowly. "Representatives of the new order of things are over here, but with the help of old comrades I have been able to make them believe I too am against the throne and watching for the king to show up.

"No one in the whole gang is so blood-thirsty against Georges as I have seemed," Georges added. "I rail against him and plan a thousand deaths for him.

"But if their suspicions should ever be aroused, my life would not be worth a farthing."

"It is high time," I said severely, "for you to take refuge with my father. You can shed your Father Christmas make-up in the adjoining suite where my father is, take on another guise and go out of the hotel without anyone dreaming you are the same man who came to this suite."

Promise of Safety

I did not tell him of the espionage exercised by the hotel manager, Milner. I knew first that Milner for a day or two would not be likely to be active, after the fiasco of drugging Noel and Mary and his grilling by Philip Veritzen. In the second place, my father could spirit him out of the hotel to one hideaway so that no one would be the wiser.

"That sounds like an answer to prayer," he said. "You cannot know how I long to be rid of this awful disguise!"

Then, with a hopeful gleam in his eyes, he said:

"If it is as safe as you say at your father's hideaway, will it be possible for me to see Mary there, and Oline—and Nord, of course?"

Testing School Pupils

"THE ABC of Tuberculosis" is a sound magazine article by Dr. Joseph D. Wassersug in the October issue of The American Mercury. He cites the following case as illustrative of the modern technique used to detect tuberculosis among school children.

"M. S., an eight-year-old school-girl, had a slight cough which lasted the greater part of one winter. She appeared run-down and played less actively than other children of her own age. Occasional night sweats had been noted for one month.

On examination, the child appeared undernourished and was 10 per cet underweight. Chest examination was entirely negative. A tuberculin patch test, however, was positive and an x-ray of the chest was taken. This revealed pulmonary tuberculosis of the childhood type.

The child was sent to a sanatorium, where she improved almost at once and was discharged at the end of 10 months. She had gained 11 pounds in weight."

The hope of eradicating tuberculosis lies in its detection in children of school age. We know that tuberculosis always begins in childhood. We further know that it is cured most easily and certainly by treating it in the school-age period. The ideal thing is for every school child all over the country, at about the age of eight—whether there are symptoms of tuberculosis or not—to have a patch test with tuberculin and if this is positive, to follow it up with a more complete examination. In many communities this is being done; it should be universal.

The patch test is performed by applying, to the clean skin an adhesive plaster so constructed that it holds tightly against the skin a given amount of matter prepared from tuberculin.

Tuberculin is a product of the activity of the growth of the germ of tuberculosis, but diluted and given in this fashion, it has never done anyone any harm. Formerly with children tuberculin was used by scratching the skin and applying the tuberculin to the scratch. It was been found, however, that the unbroken skin gives a reaction in this fashion which is just as reliable as the scratch test.

Forty-eight hours after the patch is put on the adhesive plaster is removed and if the skin is red and swollen at the place where the tuberculin was in contact, it indicates that there is a possibility of active tuberculosis. The tuberculosis may be quiescent or healed—which is the question to be determined by further examination with the x-ray and other means. The test is of little value after the age of 15 because nearly everybody has had some tuberculosis by that time.

"I insist that the milk you drink be pasteurized and obtained from tuberculin-negative cows.

2 Demand that individuals who have tubercle germs in their sputum be hospitalized or segregated in a sanatorium.

3 Persons engaged in the handling of children—school-teachers, domestics and nurses—should have at least one chest x-ray.

4 Children should have a tuberculin test at some time between the ages of 11 and 18.

War Department Puts Limit on Furloughs

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—The war department announced yesterday that Christmas and New Year's furloughs would be limited to 60 per cent of the strength of any army port, camp or station between Dec. 12 and Jan. 12 because of expected holiday transportation crushes. Passes for Christmas day and New Year's day will be limited likewise.

The announcement said that movements by rail of military personnel had reached about 1,600,000 a month as compared with less than 1,000,000 in June.
